

Referendum Measure Wins In State Senate

Proposal Gets Approval After Long Discussion By Legislators.
VOTE IS 18 TO 11 FOR IT
Bill Wins First Time Since Bitter Fight In 1914

Madison—After an extended discussion the Wisconsin senate Thursday adopted the Huber resolution providing for an amendment to the state constitution to establish the initiative and referendum. The vote was 18 to 11.

The past eight years attempts have been made to get such a proposed constitutional amendment before the people, following their rejection of the plan at a referendum in 1914. This is the first success since that time Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay, precipitated a fight when he charged that by making amendment to the constitution more readily available the progressives were endangering constitutional government.

Senators Huber and Quick defended the proposal on the floor.

Following is the roll call:

For: Messrs. Senators, Barker, Bilgrien, Cashman, Casperson, Garey, Gettelman, Heck, Hirsch, Huber, Johnson, Polakowski, Quick, Ridgeway, Schumann, Staudenmayer, Teasdale, Titus and Severson.

Against: Messrs. Senators, Burke, Czeranski, Kuckuk, Lange, Malton, Morris, Roelker, Skogmo, Werden, White and Bonfer.

WANTS DIRECT NOMINATION

Direct nomination of the president and vice president by popular vote is asked in a resolution by Senator O. H. Johnson, recommended for adoption by the senate judiciary committee.

The state affairs committee of the senate recommended for passage the initiative and referendum bill introduced by Senator Quick.

WOULD PROBE DEPARTMENTS

Senator Max Heck, Racine, introduced a bill directing the state board of public affairs to investigate the efficiency of state departments and report to the 1925 legislature with definite recommendations for improvement.

Amendment of the 10 ten per cent clause in the Wisconsin primary election law to require that but one per cent of the votes cast for a party candidate in the last general election would give the party a place on the next election ballot was proposed by Assemblyman Richard Kamke Merrill, the only Democrat of the legislature. His bill is introduced as the result of inability of Democratic candidates to comply with the restricting regulation during the last election.

Doctor Crosses Lake Ice Floes To Save Ill

Charlevoix, Mich.—A man who lay near death three days following an injury was on the way to recovery and other persons who are ill but had been unable to obtain medical attention because of the inaccessibility of their island home were under the care of a physician Thursday owing to the traditional devotion to his calling of the north country medical practitioner and to the development of aviation.

The stricken persons are residents of Beaver Island. Their plight was known here but ice floes precluded boat travel over the ten mile stretch of Lake Michigan.

Wednesday the army air service came to the rescue, transporting Dr. B. R. Armstrong to the island where he performed an operation and saved the life of Jesse Cole, the injured man. At the same time another physician, Dr. J. B. Brown, risked his life in a successful crossing of the ice fields. The trip required 14 hours.

Arriving too late to assist Cole, a woodsman who had sustained a fractured skull, Dr. Brown found numerous residents of the village of St. James ill and badly in need of his services. He will remain on the island indefinitely, ministering to the sick.

$30 A MONTH ISN'T MUCH, BRIDES FIND

Returning Dough Boys And Imported Wives Get Acquainted With U. S.

Savannah, Ga.—Some 400 soldiers who returned to America Wednesday aboard the transport St. Mihiel from the Rhine and the families of 24 of the men were resting Thursday at Fort Screven after a busy day here during which they paraded, feasted and danced. The soldiers had just ended a two weeks voyage on the ocean.

Their fellow soldiers with whom they represented the United States at Coblenz as the army of occupation were early Thursday enroute to Charleston, S. C., aboard the transport, where about 300 soldiers will be unloaded late in the afternoon.

The German, French and Belgian wives who returned with the enlisted men were expected to experience difficulty Thursday in arranging their households at the fort. Some of them have little household goods and most have none.

The vessel being too crowded much of the possessions of the soldiers were left at Coblenz or Antwerp.

The wives were also becoming acquainted with the poignant truth that a dollar is just a dollar and that a soldier in the ranks is paid but thirty of them each month while some of the women dismissed as an annoying bugaboo the matter of rate exchange in Germany, others appeared to regard the money question as having direct bearing on their future happiness.

The latter recalled that when an American goes to a motion picture theater he spends as much for a ticket as a German pays a servant for a month's work.

Olson, Milwaukee, and aimed to prevent the continuation of court cases, amends the statute so that a judge cannot take a case away from a jury and issue a direct verdict. A number of bills by P. J. Peterson, Milwaukee, relating to various changes in elections were all recommended for passage by the committee on elections.

BIDS FOR TWO NEW BRIDGES NEAR $300,000

Council As Committee Of Whole Will Meet Later To Study Proposals

Bids for Cherry-st and Lawest bridges were opened at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening and were referred to the committee of the whole, which is to meet later. (The figures) ranged from approximately $200,000 to $240,000 for Cherry-st bridge, based upon the certified checks which accompanied them. Bids on Lawest bridge ranged from $60,000 to $81,000 figured on a similar basis. The figures were very close to the estimates of Harrington, Howard & Ash of Kansas City, Mo., engineers who prepared the plans and specifications, and to the estimates of City Engineer O. F. Weissgerber.

Six bids were submitted on Cherry-st bridge and five on the Lawest structure. Three on the former bridge were for the complete structure and three for only a portion of it. Lawest bidders furnished complete figures, but one company explained that by mistake it did not furnish a check in proportion to its bid which brought the approximate figures down to about $50,000.

CHEERY-ST FIGURES

Bidders on Cherry-st bridge were McClintic-Marshall company, Chicago, steel structural work only, approximately $90,000; Stein Construction company, Milwaukee, concrete work only, approximately $120,000; Wausau Iron Works, complete, approximately $220,000; Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Works, Milwaukee, $240,000; Perry Construction company, Kaukauna, concrete work only, $210,000; Peppled & Lutton, Superior, $200,000.

Lowest bidders were Hoffman Construction company, Appleton, approximately $70,000; Ferguson Construction company, Rockford, Ill., $50,000; Zenda Construction company, Manitowish, $84,000; Wausau Iron Works, Wausau, $66,000; Stein Construction company, Milwaukee, $60,000.

The dates set for the completion of the bridges are given below.

FIX DATES

Upon completion of the tabulation of the bids the council resolved itself into a committee of the whole and Alderman Beske was called to the chair. Upon motion the committee took a recess subject to the call of the chairman.

Madison—Retests for bovine tuberculosis under the area plan in Wisconsin was asked by Assemblyman C. H. Liehe, Chippewa Falls, in a bill introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature Thursday. ## 'Ca Passe, Ca, Passe,' Says Coue; Halt And Lame Walk

By Associated Press
Chicago—The halt and the lame and the blind besieging Emile Coue, French exponent of auto suggestion, for treatment of their ills overflowed the stage at his third lecture on Wednesday, and were only quieted after the smiling little pharmacist from Nancy had halted all cures while police were called to clear the stage.

A hundred cripples in wheel chairs, on crutches and canes, or in the arms of friends, had gathered on the stage when the demonstration started.

A crippled woman was given the "ca passe, ca passe, ca passe" treatment. It worked and in a few minutes she walked off the stage, leaving her crutches behind.

"CURES" TWO AT ONE TIME

Then the Frenchman turned to a paralytic man and repeated the magical "ca passe" formula. The "cure" again, but this time two cripples were benefited instead of one. Another man, seated next the patient being treated, got up and walked, too.

The crowd shouted for M. Coue to treat a blind boy who had come to the meeting with his mother. He paid no attention and more sick surged forward for treatment. The clamoring hoards grew so dense as to impede his efforts, and he was forced to suspend work while three policemen were called to clear a space around him.

HINT WEIGHT TAX ON AUTOS WILL GET O.K.

Highway Committee Doesn't Take Direct Action But Course Is Indicated

By Associated Press
Madison—Decisions of wide importance in highway legislation to be proposed to the present session were made by the joint highway committee of the Wisconsin legislature at its meeting Wednesday night. Although final argument was not reached upon a weight tax on automobiles, the members made other determinations that indicate the trend on the legislature in road matters. A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, after presenting a tentative bill as directed by the committee calling for a graduated weight surtax, was asked again to change its provisions slightly in order to set a flat rate on automobiles between certain small steps in weight rather than by a direct 100 pound basis. This will mean but slight change in general schedule.

In order to realize larger returns from motor buses which farmers declare are tearing up Wisconsin roads, the committee decided to assess these carriers at double the license fee on trucks of the same weight making the maximum fee $252.

WOULD TAX "OUTSIDERS"

Decision was reached to give automobiles from other states a ten day privilege period in Wisconsin and if they stayed longer to tax them $1 for the first 30 days and require a regular motor car tax after 30 days had expired.

Trucks which formerly paid a flat $10 rate if operated within city limits, would be required to pay a single rate based upon weight no matter what the limit of their travel.

A flat rate of $5 for motorcycles without side cars and of $8 for motorcycles with side cars, was agreed by the committee. At present these machines pay $2.

PLAN TAX CHANGES

It was determined that automobiles licensed after July 1, each year would pay 75 per cent of the full fee while those licensed after September would pay 50 per cent. They now pay the full fee.

Mr. Hirst is to prepare new tables of license fees based upon weight between definite steps and present these to the meeting next Wednesday. While weight is still adhered to by the committee as the basis of its licensing, there is a growing sentiment for a license fee combined with a graduated license fee based either on valuation or weight.

Harding Speech Draws First Fire In Senate

Congress Has Only 18 Days Left To Act On Harding Requests

"Insulted Senate," Declares Democrat Fighting Ship Bill
PLAYS 'IMPOTENCY' CHARGE
Coupling Of Marine Measure With Debt Funding Speech Causes Ire

Washington—Criticizing "President Harding for coupling the ship subsidy issue with the British debt funding report in his address to congress Wednesday, Senator Harrison, Democrat, "Mississippi, told the senate Thursday that "the president had descended from his high pedestal and insulted the senate."

President Harding did "an unseemly thing," Mr. Harrison asserted, "in suggesting that the senate had shown marks of impotency" by delaying a vote on the ship bill.

"The president comes to the American congress," he said, "and offers an insult to the senate because for a few days none of us have seen fit to pass his program for the ship subsidy bill."

"The ship bill itself Senator Harrison said, was "monstrous, and wicked," proposing a transfer of $85,000 to the shipping trust. He charged that the president had fallen under the influence of Chairman Lasker of the shipping board.

"When Lasker pulls the string," he said "the president jumps."

Senator Harrison said the Republican leadership could have a vote Thursday on the shipping bill if it would agree that "lame duck" senators should not vote. He suggested that the president also could call an extra session of the new congress March 5 if he wanted a real show down of public opinion.

Frees Farmer For Sake Of Dumb Animals

By Associated Press
Madison—To enable him to go home to take care of a pure bred percheron stallion that hasn't been out of the barn since Sept. 29, Governor J. J. Blaine Thursday pardoned Edward Chiman, Pepin-co farmer serving one year in jail for manufacturing moonshine liquor in violation of the state prohibition law.

"Dumb animals and innocent parties are receiving most punishment for the imprisonment of Chiman," the governor declared. "He has 20 head of cattle, 15 horses, a pure bred percheron stallion and some pigs, all to be cared for by the wife and two young children," he added.

"The stock, no doubt has been greatly neglected, especially the stallion, which has not been out of the barn since Sept. 29 last, as the boy cannot take him out and his wife and daughter dare not go near him."

"Under the circumstances shown in this case, the jail sentence, in default of the fine, is commuted to expire at noon Feb. 8, and the fine is reduced to $300, the amount that he may be able to pay."

HOUSE COMMITTEE ACTS ON DEBT PLAN

Democrats Object To Clause Giving President Sole Power In Future

By Associated Press
Washington—The American debt commission does not desire to make more favorable terms with the debtor nations than are embodied in the settlement agreement reached with the British government, the house ways and means committee was told Thursday by Representative Burton, Republican of Ohio, a member of the commission.

Legislation which would give effect to the British debt settlement agreement reached recently by the British and American debt commissions was taken up Thursday by the house ways and means committee. Chairman Fordney hoped to obtain favorable action before night to get house consideration of the bill Friday.

Democrats on the committee regarded the provision authorizing the commission to make settlement with the other nations "similar in terms" to the British agreement as leaving the door wide open for much more liberal agreements. Their chief objection was to the section authorizing future settlements subject only to the approval of the president.

Robbers Rifle Mail In Kenosha

Kenosha—A daring mail robbery in which thieves on Wednesday night took several pieces of mail from the trucks at the Northwestern station here was discovered Thursday when two pouches of the stolen mail were found along the side of the Burlington four miles west of Kenosha. They had been rifled and the parts not wanted by the thieves strewn along the road. The pouches recovered carried parcel post mail, one despatched from Zion City, for transfer here, and the other from Kenosha containing the parcel post shipments from a Kenosha concern.

Postmaster James Gorman declared it was possible that several other sacks of mail were taken by the thieves as these two were left with probably 40 others awaiting the south-bound mail train Wednesday evening. Postal authorities are in Kenosha seeking clues to reveal the identity of the robbers.

TEMPER OF RUHR CITIZENS RILED

By Associated Press
Duesseldorf—Reports from the upper valley where the French have occupied several textile towns, indicate that the temper of the civilian population is uncertain. Agents of the "committee for defense and reprisals in the Ruhr" are said to be operating among the citizens.

That the French are prepared to take drastic measures to prevent sabotage is evident from the order notifying the Ruhr Germans that all persons found damaging railroad property will be sentenced to death.

ORCHESTRA MUSIC THRILLS AUDIENCE OF 1,700 PEOPLE

Minneapolis Players Accorded
Ovation in Concerts
At Chapel

To listen to the Minneapolis symphony orchestra as it played at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Wednesday afternoon and evening was to have a thankful feeling that you were not deaf and that you could sit there and drink in all the wonder of the great music as it was played by the talented orchestra. The house in the evening was completely sold out and the few vacant seats resulted from the fact that some out-of-town people found it impossible to get through because of the condition of the roads. In the afternoon the house was filled and hundreds of children were in the audience.

Each number on the program in the evening was enthusiastically received. The precision of attack and the response of the 85 musicians to the slightest variation of tone and quality was the thing which impressed even those in the audience who are not critical of music. The new director, Henri Verbruggen, was welcomed by the huge audience, for this is his first appearance in Appleton as director.

ENCORE AT CLOSE
A large portion of the audience remained seated and clapped persistently even after the final encore, but because many people got up to go, no more than one could be secured. In both the afternoon and evening the orchestra responded to the applause with a special number which the leader explained was inspired by the aboriginal race of African pygmies.

Because of its familiarity to most of the people in the audience the "Peer Gynt" Suite, No. 1 by Grieg was greatly enjoyed. The most spectacular of these in which the final notes gave the unmistakable impression of the mother of Peer passing into the great beyond.

"Morning in the Mountains," "Anitra's Dance" and "Dance in the Hall of the Mountain King" are well known selections which are played often with a variety of instruments. The symphonic harmony of each of these is exquisite and the Minneapolis orchestra made the most of it.

LIKE LOHENGRIN
The second prelude from "Lohengrin" was a breath taking selection. It was given tremendous applause by the audience but the director explained that to play anything else immediately afterward or to play it again would detract from the climax.

This was the prelude to Act III which was written as the celebration of the marriage of Lohengrin and Elsa. The first in this group was the prelude to the opera and had as its theme the coming of the Holy Grail. The harmonies increase in this number as the grail is revealed to human eyes and the resulting music is stupendous.

Henry Woemner and Henry J. Williams appeared in a flute and harp solo in "L'Arlesienne" on Wednesday evening for the first time with the orchestra. The number was very effective. The final number "Les Preludes" ended with "The Call to Strife" in a great blaze of harmony and power.

At the afternoon performance where the audience was largely children a program was given especially for them. Mr. Verbruggen remarked after the concert that he was especially pleased with the behavior of the children during the entire concert. The programs were prepared by Carlo Fischer.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulified cocoon oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulified.

DOROTHEA KOCH

BY GENE COHN
San Francisco—Can a chorus girl be unsophisticated?

All the "wise ones" will laugh at the question. Yet $25,000 depends on the answer a jury will give.

Dorothea Koch, 22, show girl, insists dancing as a soubrette may teach one a great deal about the bright lights, but never will she find anything to learn from the "way" of an Indiana farmer with a maid.

Hence she is suing an Indiana farmer alleging false arrest, kidnapping, false imprisonment and what not.

Her complaint alleges: In December she met the farmer who proposed marriage and gave her a diamond ring. Going to Los Angeles to visit, she was pursued via airplane by her suitor. He burst in upon her, accompanied by a private detective. He declared he held warrants charging her with jumping out with the life. He told her he ought to send her to jail, but he would be content if she would go back with him to San Francisco.

She went—a forced trip, she insists, and then for two weeks he kept her in the farmer's home, where he was a narrow interpretation of a "bad man" along the border from Texas to California.

The time for action on ship subsidy grows short. Mr. Harding has been told by senators who have made a canvass of the situation that if the ship subsidy measure comes to a vote it can be passed. The opponents of the bill know they can talk it to death and will the bill by preventing a vote.

But Mr. Harding wants congress to give the shipping board an alternative policy to guide it in the months of operation that are coming after March 4 and before the next session of congress could give to the subject and consideration.

The time for action on ship subsidy grows short. Mr. Harding has been told by senators who have made a canvass of the situation that if the ship subsidy measure comes to a vote it can be passed. The opponents of the bill know they can talk it to death and will the bill by preventing a vote.

But Mr. Harding wants congress to give the shipping board an alternative policy to guide it in the months of operation that are coming after March 4 and before the next session of congress could give to the subject and consideration.

As for her character "All bunk," says he.

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Herk
Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born and the effect it had was wonderful. This will be the first child I have nursed as I had to bring my two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and kept on with it. I still continue its use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. Wm. KLINGE, 163 Plymouth St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs.

COUNCIL TO FLOAT H. S. BOND ISSUE TO SPUR BUILDING

Recommends Zoning Changes
So West End Triangle
May Be Purchased

By a unanimous vote the common council at its meeting Wednesday evening decided to take steps at once to provide the board of education with the proceeds of the proposed bond issue for the erection of two new junior high schools. The board of education has reached a point where it does not feel justified in proceeding further without funds at its disposal, the council was informed.

Purchase of block 82 as a site for one of the schools was referred to the committee on public grounds and buildings. This is the triangular site at College ave and State-st.

Through a resolution introduced by Alderman Taubs the council expressed itself in favor of the city purchasing block 82 less 200 feet north of the center line of the Soo Line track. It was the sentiment also of the council to request the city planning commission to place 200 feet north of the center line of the Soo Line tracks in block 82 in the commercial district of the new zoning plan, and that the 50 feet south of the Soo Line track be left in the residential district, south of the center line in block 82. The vote stood 8 to 4. Aldermen Callahan, Lappin, Murphy and Thompson voting in the negative.

CARY SPEAKS
Several members of the board of education attended the meeting. Attorney Paul V. Cary explained the necessity of the council providing funds before further expenses were incurred. He reviewed the action of the board at its last meeting and the reasons for not signing the contract with Perkins, Fellows & Hamilton, architects, until the board was assured the money would be forthcoming. The board took this action to be on the safe side, he said.

Lee C. Rasey, principal of the high school, said each of the new buildings would have accommodations for 600 pupils. At first it was suggested that buildings with accommodations for 450 would meet all requirements, but with the present rate of increase of attendance he said the buildings would be practically filled by the time they were completed. He saw no reason why buildings with accommodations for 600 pupils should not provide amply for the future.

Mr. Rasey assured the council that the new buildings would contain only absolute requirements, no frills entering into them. The plans would be presented to the council as soon as they were completed, he said.

Directors to Meet

Calls Africa Land Of Undeveloped Treasure

New York—Africa as the Continent of Great Misunderstandings, rather than the Dark Continent, and as a land flowing with milk and honey instead of the Last Frontier for romanticists' ahiest for wild thrills, is the theme of a report published today by the Phelps-Stokes fund for an international commission, which has just returned from a ten months' investigation.

The immense and varied physical resources of Africa are virtually unknown to civilization, says Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, author of the report, because previous researches were made for private or governmental use, and the results were not published. He regrets that the popular conception of Africa was derived from journalistic accounts.

He found evidence to convince the most skeptical that Africa is the "undeveloped treasure house of the world" with every colony possessing precious metals in commercial quantities and possibilities in agriculture, animal husbandry and water-power that scarcely have been touched.

Four general misconceptions are limiting investment of capital in African industry and agriculture; hampering the efforts of colonial governments, and discouraging the support of missions. Dr. Jones continues.

The first concerns natural resources and scenery, the second the health conditions of the continent, the third the improbability of the people, and the fourth the European and American influences.

"AFRICA MISUNDERSTOOD"

"The most unfortunate and unfair of all the misunderstandings is that the African people do not give promise of development sufficient to warrant efforts in their behalf," Dr. Jones reports, adding that the contrary is shown "by their response to the missions, governments and commercial organizations."

"Africans," he goes on, "occupy positions of importance in every colony visited. There are physicians, lawyers and ministers who have completed the requirements of European universities, and, while the number is small, it is sufficient to prove the capacity of the people."

GAINS 20 POUNDS, FRIENDS SAY SHE'S PICTURE OF HEALTH

Wisconsin Woman Is Highly Elated Over Results She Obtained By Taking Tanlac

"Tanlac has actually built me up twenty pounds in weight and I feel just grand again," is the grateful statement made recently by Mrs. Anna Raczek, Box 287, Route 4, West Allis, Wis.

"I was in such a run-down condition I thought I would never pull through. I had been at the bedside of my little sick boy day and night, and when I did try to catch a little sleep was so nervous and weak it was almost impossible. I never wanted food, and the little I did eat cramped and pained me terribly. My heart palpitated frightfully, and headaches, dizziness and backaches nearly made an end of me."

"Since taking Tanlac my friends tell me I am the very picture of health, and I think it is just wonderful, for I have only taken three bottles—just half of the treatment. My troubles are entirely gone, and I feel better than I have in years."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

THE MADISON PROGRAM

Announcement that the Simmons Bed company would remove from the state of Wisconsin because of prospective radical legislation has been followed by two other announcements of like significance. The Cooper Underwear Company of Kenosha, one of the largest industries of that city and one of the leading underwear manufacturers of the country, has abandoned plans for the expansion of its plant at that point and will instead build in Michigan. The Thilmany Pulp and Paper company of Kaukauna will remove its bag department employing nearly 100 men, to some point outside of Wisconsin. It is not at all unlikely that other companies will take similar steps. It is a fact that some of the railroad companies have had under consideration removal of their shops from the state and there is no question that if the legislature puts through the tax program and other measures aimed primarily at the industrial interests of the state Wisconsin will not only lose many of its manufacturing plants and companies, but capital from the outside will refuse to come into Wisconsin for industrial investment.

This is a situation that even politicians cannot afford to make light of, yet in the face of it the legislators at Madison, who know little about the problems of manufacturing, whose knowledge of business principles and economics is limited and whose principal aim is a blind determination to punish capitalism for some fancied grievance and to take the profits away from solvent enterprise, go merrily along with their program ranging from publicity of income to abolishment of the national guard. Governor Blaine laughs at the loss of the Simmons company and tells the people of Wisconsin it is a good thing to get rid of such corporations. He charges the Simmons company with being a tax dodger, just as he has broadcasted the charge against industry at large, and we find from the prompt rejoinder of the Simmons company of tax evasion to the extent of $145,000. Mr. Simmons says the facts are that this sum constitutes a difference in depreciation allowance. The Simmons company in its state returns, according to its president, used the depreciation percentage approved by the federal government, but the politicians at Madison in the majesty of their wisdom held it to be too high and cut it down for the purpose of increasing the tax. Probably this is a fair example of the "tax evasion" about which Mr. Blaine has been shouting for the last couple of years. Certainly it is no offense for a company to cure its depreciation in accordance with sound business experience, even if it is a different percentage than politicians figure it. The controversy between Mr. Simmons and Mr. Blaine is an illuminating picture of constructive business versus destructive demagoguery. It shows very well what is at issue in the politics of this state.

It is now proposed in the legislature to conduct an investigation of the tax laws of the state for purposes of comparison with those of other states in their effect upon industry. We do not know whether this proposal comes from fear of consequences of laws the legislature proposes to enact or whether it is a subterfuge on which to prepare in advance a defense of this legislation. In a legislature which is largely controlled by socialists, and which is frankly anti-capitalist, it is difficult to believe that it is either open-minded or qualified for the making of such an investigation. What do these legislators know and what can they find out about the effects of tax and other legislation in surrounding states on industry? What do they know about its effects in Wisconsin? An investigation can be made to show anything it is desired to show, particularly in a case where it would be possible to use only generalities in 'summing up' conclusions. We would not be at all surprised to have a legislative committee report that the laws of Michigan, Indiana and Illinois were more inimical to industry than those of Wisconsin, yet such an assertion would be ridiculous. Everyone knows the wonderful industrial expansion of each of these states, while today the overflow from the great industrial center of Chicago is confining itself well within the boundary limits of Illinois, although much of it naturally should come to Wisconsin. We doubt if there would be confidence anywhere in such an investigation.

The legislature would do better to go ahead with its attack on industry and successful business and get it over with. If business and industry survive, all right. If they are burdened to death or wrecked, that will have to be all right, too. Most businesses in Wisconsin cannot very well get out on short notice. They will have to face the music and do the best they can. Our prediction is, however, that publicity of incomes, taxation under either the Severson or Dahl bills, and abolishment of the national guard, three proposals aimed directly at industry, will cause a reaction within two or three years that will sweep them all off the statute books in an effort to repair the damage that by that time will be fully apparent. The reaction will be even greater than it was in North Dakota, for Wisconsin has much besides agriculture that is vital to its prosperity. So far as publicity of incomes is concerned, that will never add one dollar of taxes to the state treasury. It is not intended to. It is a blind, pure and simple, to expose men and industries in Wisconsin that are making money, in order that they may be held up as profiteers and made the object of further assault by class propagandists and politicians.

OUTDOOR LIFE

If the boys you meet today seem to be raising more of a rumpus than usually, it will be in celebration of an event very important to Young America. The Boy Scouts movement was incorporated and officially launched in our country Feb. 8, 1910, two years after Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell started the organization in England. The general purpose of the Boy Scouts is to train lads in good citizenship, manhood and self-reliance. Its founders, displaying knowledge of psychology, assured its success by adopting uniforms for the members. Man or boy, let him wear a uniform and he will do almost anything. Some of our national movements that fail might be successful if an attractive uniform went with membership. Maybe that is the way to enforce prohibition—officially permit abstainers to wear something like a red coat. Did it ever occur to you that the uniform is the first image that comes to your mind at mention of Boy Scouts?

Few of us have an accurate idea of the values the young generation get from the Boy Scouts. A scout starts as a tenderfoot, then works up, by merit and ability, to second-class scout, finally to first-class. To be a first-class scout, a boy has to be able to swim 50 yards. He must have at least $2 in a savings bank. He must know how to wig-wag signals by flags. He has to be able to administer first-aid in case of accidents. He must know how to read maps and make them, handle an ax, judge distances and be able to cook for campers. The Boy Scout pledges obedience to parents, kindness to animals, courtesy to all. He has instilled into him a high code of honor and practical applications of the Golden Rule and Good Samaritanism.

The best thing done by the Boy Scouts is that it takes its members back to nature. The closer we keep to nature, the better for our nation. There is always hope for a civilization whose boys are prowling in the woods, hiking cross-country, studying birds and flowers and breathing fresh air. In our half-mad swarming in cities, we have given the boy a raw deal, stripped him of his rightful playgrounds, caked him up like an animal and handicapped him with 'unhealthful' environment. For all this the Boy Scout movement is in the nature of an antidote.

DANGERS OF BEING CAREFUL

The world, observes a correspondent, seems to be divided into disease germ fanatics and those who discount germs. It is possible, for instance, to contract disease from a door knob or a hotel bath tub? How long would germ life endure on such objects? What would you say of an aseptic technique of a dentist who personally answers the telephone and resumes work on the patient in the chair without washing his hands? Does he subject the patient to any risks? And is it unduly squeamish to hesitate to take home or read books, such as public library books, which have been handled or read by all sorts of persons?

The dentist who fails to wash his hands thoroughly after having handled a telephone instrument or any other object which has not been sterilized for the occasion subjects his patient to an unnecessary risk. A dentist operating on a patient ought to follow the same rigid aseptic (not antiseptic) technique which the surgeon follows in order to prevent septicemia (infection, acute blood poisoning). Aseptic means free from poison, germ free, absolute cleanliness; antiseptic implies reliance upon chemicals to destroy germs or prevent their multiplication. Antiseptic technique is comparable with that kind of housekeeping which stacks the dishes and brushes the dust under the whatnot or behind the day bed until a "cleanup," such as spring house cleaning, becomes imperative. Aseptic technique is like housekeeping which keeps the house clean.

No one need worry about catching any horrible disease through the ordinary contact of the hands with doorknobs, public library books, paper or metal currency and other objects which must be handled more or less commonly. If any disease germs ever so lodge on such surfaces they die in a few moments or lose their virulence or capacity to do harm. Casual contact of the hands or the body with the hands or the body of another person is a very different condition and does unquestionably afford opportunity for infection with various diseases, such as scabies, pediculosis, ordinary septicemia (acute blood poisoning, pus germ infection), and sometimes syphilis. Personal contact, as in crowded places, or by shaking hands, involves the transfer or exchange of invisible filth on the hands, (if saliva were indigo this would be apparent to everybody); such filth may and sometimes does harbor germs capable of causing such diseases as typhoid fever, infectious diarrhea, and the intestinal nervous infections. Therefore it is good sense and good hygiene to wash the hands with soap and water immediately after such contact when possible, and always before eating. The visible dirt is really less dangerous than invisible filth; persons whose cleanliness is on the surface are prone to skip their washing if their hands do not look dirty. Hand washing is a health habit which is shockingly underdone. From the health viewpoint it is definitely more important than body washing.

A hotel bath tub or any other is certainly uninviting to one with an aseptic conscience, though I do not believe any disease is contracted by the use of the common bath tub, provided the adventure includes soaping; for soap is a good reliable disinfectant.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Week's Events Briefly Told

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Just as a man who's been critically ill for so long that his attendants have nearly quit worrying about him takes a sudden turn for the worse, starting the doctors and nurses scurrying frantically again—even so has the Turkish "situation" developed terribly alarming symptoms over the week-end.

The "Lausanne conference," at which the "powers" were trying to come to terms with Turkey, has ended abruptly without an agreement.

Turkey's side is this:

The ex-sultan, while still on the job, granted a lot of concessions and made various agreements very prejudicial to Turkey's interests. The new Turkish government, having deposed the sultan, rejects these agreements.

The other "powers" might stand for this, but not England.

The one thing England draws the line at is surrender of her "mandate" to Turkey's rich oil province of Mosul. This is exactly the thing Turkey insists on.

Late last week Lord Curzon, British representative, told Ismet Fasha, Turkish negotiator, that Ismet had to come to his terms or he'd quit.

It sounded like an ultimatum, but M. Bonapard, French delegate, said he didn't understand it so. If Curzon meant it that way, he added, then France was prepared to make a separate treaty with the Turks.

This meant the kicking of Curzon's French support out from under him. He declared it was "unbelievable!" Bonapard would do such a thing—only he had.

At any rate Curzon made his throat good, Ismet stood pat. Curzon quit.

Logically war between England and Turkey's the only thing that can follow, but may not work out logically. Desperate efforts will be made to prevent it. Any British government that goes to war over Mosul will be in grave danger from its own people. Turkey, however, unquestionably is ready to fight. Presumably she has Russian backing.

At the best it's a threatening outlook.

The Ruhr troubles promises to develop something chronic. These chronic complaints are bad, not only in themselves, but also because they make the patient so susceptible to complications, often a good deal worse than the original disease.

However, it looks a little more like the time as if the French were getting to a point where they'll be willing to have an outsider straighten the situation out. That the Germans would be overjoyed at this goes without saying. The Ruhr occupation is ruining them. But it takes longer for the French to find out that it's likely to ruin them, too. Still, the idea seems to be sinking in.

If an arbitrator really should be brought in, unquestionably it will be the United States. The Washington administration has let it be known already that it will be more than delighted to mediate if both French and Germans desire it, but that it doesn't propose to "DUTY" in.

Of course the big danger is that a good deal worse trouble of some sort will break out before this can happen.

pen. That's what no outside power can guard against. The world can only hope for the best.

News dispatches say Germany is much excited over reports that the British plan to occupy Hamburg and Bremen, as a means of checking any spread of French power on the European continent. If there were any truth in this story, it would be tremendously important, but it's almost certain there isn't.

Everything's fixed for the fifth Pan-American Congress, to be held in Chile in March.

The United States and all the Latin American countries will be represented, with the possible exception of Mexico and Peru, which haven't accepted invitations yet, the former perhaps because she doesn't feel settled enough after her years of civil trouble, and the latter most likely because she's too hostile to Chile to care to attend a meeting there.

It will be a perfectly lovely affair, and the American delegates will come home and report a whole lot accomplished. That is to say, they'll report that the Latin Americans were enthusiastically in favor of the things they want accomplished and that the Latin Americans are going to follow just as soon as a few perfunctory little details have been attended to. But the perfunctory little details never will be attended to.

The Latin American is the politest person in the world. When somebody asks him to do what he prefers not to do, he wouldn't for the world give pain by refusing to do it. Instead, he agrees, with all kinds of enthusiasm and cordiality—but he doesn't do it.

"It is well known," said "La Prensa," of Buenos Aires, South America's foremost newspaper, commenting on the coming congress, "that the most important measures recommended by the four preceding congresses haven't been ratified by the signatory countries."

"This might seem to imply a conflict of opinion between the executives of these governments, who are represented directly at the congresses, and their legislative branches, which persistently refuse to endorse the measures recommended."

"In reality no such conflict exists. Quite the contrary."

"There is a general understanding among the countries represented that these recommendations shall not be ratified. National executives sign them and subsequently submit them to their legislatures as gestures of diplomatic courtesy. But they are careful to insert in the ratifying acts evasive and apparently innocuous clauses that permit them ostensibly to fulfill their signed engagement, yet at the same time make plain the principle that they are not to be taken seriously."

Details have been made public of the tentative agreement reached between the British and Americans who met in Washington recently to discuss funding England's war debt to this country.

The debt is $1,601,128,053.74.

The principals to be paid off, if the agreement sticks, in a series of installments covering a period of 62 years. For the first ten years, inter-

There are a lot of little sub-clauses which don't sound important now, but may prove to have "jokers" concealed in them when the time comes. The London cabinet, albeit some Britons say the interest rate's pretty stiff, has endorsed the plan. It will come before Congress next and in the Senate there's sure to be opposition, especially from those who want more interest and from others who want to hook the repayment agreement up with a soldiers' bonus bill.

Q. What per cent of pupils graduate from high school and from college? B. B. McI.

A. Through a misunderstanding, a former answer to this question was inaccurate. The Bureau of Education says that 33.9 per cent of students who enroll the first grade are graduated from high school; and that 7.2 per cent enter college, and 2.5 per cent are graduated. Out of each 100 who enter high school, 40 are graduated, and 32.3 per cent of those entering college are graduated.

Q. Just what is meant by an American citizen? M. M. B.

A. The term "American citizen" in the United States is used in the same sense as in the ancient classical republics, that is, a citizen is a free governing member of the state, possessing full political and civil rights. An Attorney-General of the United States once defined the term as "a citizen of the United States without addition, and means neither more nor less than a member of the United States."

Q. Can a rat climb the wall of a brick building on the outside? L. P.

A. The ordinary house rat will scale a brick wall of considerable height providing it is not too smooth. It is finished to afford a foothold in the cement with which the bricks are joined.

Q. How many different kinds of vegetables are used for food? K. T. L.

A. Most families use but 12 or 15, different kinds of vegetables, but the large markets in our cities have for sale, throughout the year about 50 varieties.

Q. What is the meaning of orichalcum? H. T. M.

A. Orichalcum, literally ground gold, in the etymological meaning of the word is ground gold leaf used as a gilt pigment, and is an extension of the term, a compound of copper, zinc and tin, or a paste of mercury and gold, used for gilding.

Q. How long has palmistry been practiced? D. G. O.

A. The so-called science of palmistry was known to the early Chinese, in the ancient Greeks and was somewhat popular on the Continent during the Middle Ages.

Q. Was Shakespeare's theater an open air theater? F. D.

A. The Shakespearean theater was not an outdoor or open air theater, as it has been so often described, but was a roofless theater, and therefore something quite distinctive.

Q. What was the largest sheet of paper ever made? M. N. H.

A. A roll exhibited at the Buffalo Exposition was 152 inches wide and weighed 4,600 pounds. Two sheets unrolled would have reached six miles and is said to have been the largest ever manufactured.

U. S. Representative from Ohio,
Twenty-Second District

WAS walking to the House one autumn day and I noticed an old, white haired dorky putting coal into one of the government office buildings.

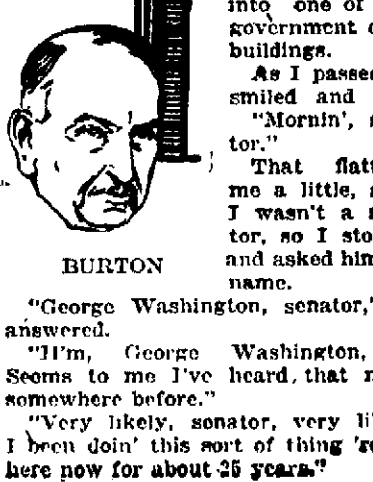

As I passed, he smiled and said: "Mornin', senator."

"That flattered me a little, since I wasn't a senator, so I stopped and asked him his name."

"George Washington, senator," he answered.

"I'm, George Washington, eh? Seems to me I've heard that name somewhere before."

"Very likely, senator, very likely; I been doing this sort of thing 'round here now for about 25 years."

COUNCIL DEFERS ACTION ON MILK REGULATING LAW

It requires that all such persons handling milk keep only such cows which have been tuberculin tested and have been found without disease or that the milk be pasteurized.

HEAR REPORTS

The delegates were Frank Reimer, Frank Julius, Joseph Ehm, Henry Mantel, Charles Schueller, Alois Griesbach, Ora Bungeert, George Palmbach, F. W. Schroeder and Henry Kroutenberg.

George Schmit, who attended the annual meeting in Milwaukee of Equity Cooperative Livestock association Jan. 30, also made a report. He showed the splendid progress made by the sales association. It has been in business only eight months and has done a business of more than a million dollars already, he said.

The shippers reported the service prompt. Toy prices usually are paid for livestock and the locals receive $2 a car dividend.

LIKE NEW PLAN

It was brought out in the discussions at Milwaukee that the farmers like the cooperative shipping idea better than dealing with individual buyers. The latter usually come at a busy time and the farmer has a tendency to sell his stock earlier than he intends. Farmers are not always familiar with the market fluctuations and often accept a buyer's story and find they have lost money by not having been informed, Mr. Schmit said.

About 40 couples attended the dance given last Friday evening by the Order of Martha.

HORROR OF BLACK CAT BREAKS DOWN CRIMINALS AT BAY

New York Police Use Simple Scheme, Capitalizing On Superstition

New York—The terror of the New York police force, who throw the fear of the law in even the most hardened criminals, is just a plain black cat.

"Nig" is his name and before him murderers break down, thieves confess and crooks have their souls. None seems to be able to stand up under his penetrating gaze.

Last Christmas a salesman was beaten and robbed by a hack driver. The police were making little headway with the case until they picked up a suspect a few days ago. He denied any connection with the crime and pleaded with such sincerity that the authorities were about to let him go.

Just then Nig came on the scene. The superstition of the ill omen of a black cat walking in front of him, broke the spirit of the prisoner. His reserve fell away like a mask. Trembling he cried:

"Take dat cat away, boss, please! Ah! tell yuh de truth, deed all well. Ah know ah's-roller, a deuce. Jes' looks dem eye deuce."

Nig's eyes had turned the trick where a regular third degree had failed.

A man had slashed his wife's face with a razor. The police caught him but he denied everything. They grilled him and quizzed him. But he was firm.

Nig was watching the performance from atop of a piano. As the prisoner was being taken from the room the cat jumped down and crossed his path. The man stopped short in his tracks, and gasped. A detective quick to grasp the opportunity returned out the light. Darkness... except for the two green glows which moved about ever so slowly. With a moan the prisoner sank to the floor.

"Turn on them lights, mistah," he moaned. "Ah done it! Ah admit it—only take dat cat outn' heah."

It was a triumph of a silent third degree. But such superstitions aren't confined to one class of prisoners. Not long ago a handsome young woman was arrested for shoplifting. It was apparent that she was no ordinary thief. She answered all questions with great self-control. As she was about to be led away, Nig passed by. All self-possession vanished. The woman broke down hysterically and confessed.

Nig blinked wistfully and sneaked off to find a mouse for luncheon.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every Druggist in this county is authorized to sell every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Volgi's Drug Store can supply you.

TRIBUNE TONGUE TWISTER

On the minstrel show program Tuesday evening at the Appleton theater, I noticed a peculiar coincidence of names. In the "Dance of the Dollies," the names of the six little girls taking part in the dance were:

Jean, Janette, Virginia, Jean, June, and June.

"I'VE GOT YOU NOW!"

At 5:30 Tuesday evening the driver of a Ford coupe attempted to turn around at the corner of Cherry-st and State road and ran a front wheel off the end of a culvert and was stuck fast. After viewing the situation the driver spied a sleigh load of cord wood near by. He began to carry the 4-foot sticks to build up under the wheel so he could back out. While carrying the last needed stick the Ford owner was suddenly accosted by a big burly looking fellow who grabbed him and shouted "I've got you now!" It required some argument and evidence to prove to the owner of the wood that it was not being stolen.

HE HAD AN EDDICATION

We were in a pool shack when one of the fellows spied the following words on a sign on the wall: "Please don't use these cues." He remarked for every one to hear that the fellow who had written that sign had laughed at him because he went to high school and ended by saying: "I at least know how to spell a simple word like that. The fellows told him to spell it then and he replied: 'Why, it is a-u-e-o-e-s, of course.'"

SOME ONE WILL BE KILLED

At 5:30 Tuesday afternoon I saw a group of boys who were playing on Franklin st indulge in a dangerous game. They would climb up a telephone post and then slide down on the guy wire. One boy climbed way to the top and started touching the wire just to be smart.

PLAYED KLU KLUX JOKE

An old man came out of Gerritts saloon on Tuesday afternoon and caused a great deal of excitement and amusement. On his back was the sign "Agent Ku Klux Klan" which had evidently been put there by some of his cronies.

SOME ARE KIND TO DOGS

Two driver of an automobile on State-st Thursday morning saw a dog sitting in the middle of the road. When the auto approached it, the dog did not move, so the driver got out to see what was the matter. He found the dog's paw was bleeding, so he bound it up with his handkerchief, lifted the dog into his car and went along.

PET DOG TIRED HER OUT

A well dressed woman in Pettibone's store had a dreadful time with her pet dog. She tried and tried to make it mind her and lie down while she did her shopping. By the time she had got the dog to mind, she was all tired out and remarked to the clerk: "I suppose I'll have to carry him out now to make him move."

MULES HELP ONCE MORE

Wednesday morning at about eleven o'clock, I spied one of the Marston trucks, loaded with coal, in the ditch near a private driveway, opposite the chair factory. The driver of the truck unable to see the ditch on account of the deep snow, got two wheels of his truck deep into the ditch, from which he was unable to pull them. Then Pete Steens and his mules came to the rescue and soon had the truck on solid ground again.

SNOW TAKES BIG TOLL

The drifting snow on highway 13 between Appleton and Oshkosh collected heavy toll Wednesday evening. Street car service was crippled, an Appleton Neenah bus was in the ditch, one sedan was completely snowed in and abandoned on the street car tracks and a Studebaker sedan No. 16-134 lost the road going through a wire fence and crashing into a tree bending the front axle badly.

SHARKS HAMPER ENGLISH FISHERMEN; CUT NETS

By Associated Press
London—Sharks lately have been causing havoc to fishing nets and lines belonging to fishermen in the Irish of Port. In three days the fishing fleet caught three of the great fish, one with seven feet of line in its belly.

The sharks were sighted in large numbers at many of the English bathing beaches last summer, and it is generally believed that hundreds of them now surround the British Isles and are destroying valuable fishing.

ON THE SCREEN

"OLIVER TWIST" PROVES ONE OF SCREEN'S BIGGEST

As the engagement of little Jackie Coogan in "Oliver Twist" draws near its close at the Elite Theatre, tonight, the impression gains strength that this is one of the biggest and most notable picture products yet created for the screen.

Not only in the "sting" of the production, but in its "intimacy" is art value being recognized; not only does it appeal to the youngsters, but to the matured as well.

It seems to be as nearly perfect as a picture play can be, an entertainment for everybody. Even the pedant and the library bookworm, for whom the theatre usually exerts but the slightest influence, is concerned with "Oliver Twist" to see in what manner the literary spirit of Charles Dickens is set forth upon the screen and by what processes of elimination the narrative as composed by the immortal novelist have been applied to reduce the story matter to the limits of a screen presentation.

That Frank Lloyd, in making the adaptation, has employed the rarest judgment and keenest sympathies is unanimously agreed by patrons; that the production is all that was claimed for it is likewise agreed and that little Jackie Coogan, the bright star of a brilliant aggregation of players, is at the very apex of his matured yet youthful art is overwhelmingly conceded.

Lon Chaney, Gladys Brockwell, George Seismann, Lionel Belmore, Edouard Trebal, Joan Standing, James H. Marcus, Aggie Herrin, Carl Stockdale and Eddie Roland are but few of the many distinguished players to give Jackie ideal support in his first "superproduction" for Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN "THE PRIMITIVE LOVER"

Constance Talmadge in her latest First National attraction, "The Primitive Lover," will be the feature at the Elite Theatre Friday and Saturday. This is from an original story by Edgar Selwyn.

The star plays the role of a romance-stricken wife who abhors the idea of domesticity and household routine. Her thoughts run to the gallant romance of bygone days which she absorbs from all the best sellers that the library shelf holds. At this opportune time a former lover, who had supposedly perished during an expedition to South America returns. His ideas of romance and his caveman methods appeal to the girl who builds air castles of men of his type and stands in striking contrast to the practical every day sameness of her husband.

From this unique situation the picture develops a plot that revolves around an interesting story at the same time that it bristles with comedy and humorous situations. Miss Talmadge's talent at interpreting comedy scenes in such previous productions as "Wedding Bells" and "Dolly of the Follies" has been amply demonstrated; and "The Primitive Lover," offering as it does an entirely new out-look for her ability to depict humor, promises to be rare entertainment.

Harrison Ford, who was recently seen as leading man in Norma Talmadge's hit, "Smilin' Through," has the part of the husband, while Kenneth Marlan is cast as the novelist. Unusual scenic settings in the Sierra mountains and a raging blizzard blend with a story of proven appeal to provide a splendid attraction.

RECOMMENDS LASH FOR DRUG PEDDLERS IN CANADA

By Associated Press
Toronto—Police Chief Samuel J. Dickinson recommends the lash for persons convicted of peddling narcotics. "I am in favor of the lash," he said, "because it is a deterrent upon those living on the profits derived from the sale of drugs to addicts, he declares, and fines are usually paid by the 'higher ups' in the traffic."

There is no Substitute for Quality

Automobile bodies, like houses, may be either strong, sturdy and durable, or light, flimsy and weak. Like houses, good bodies are expensive, and make-shifts are cheap. Prices influence sales of automobiles, as they do of houses, but highest quality and lowest price are possible in neither.

There is no substitute for quality.

To cheapen quality of materials, construction and finish is not Studebaker policy. A makeshift product is fatal to permanent success. Studebaker bodies are built to withstand for many years the exposure and use to which an automobile is subjected. Better bodies are not built by any manufacturer nor borne by any chassis. Studebaker's reputation is at stake in body building.

Studebaker body plants at South Bend, Indiana, alone contain 2,700,000 square feet of floor space, represent the investment of $7,000,000, employ 5,000 people, and are the largest body plants owned and operated by any individual manufacturer in the industry. They are, we believe, as experienced and as competent to build good bodies at minimum costs as any plants in existence. Buyers of Studebaker cars get the benefit of this investment, experience and economy.

The broad principle upon which Studebaker business has prospered for seventy-one years, and upon which it is now conducted, insures satisfaction to everybody who deals with the House of Studebaker.

OIL PROMOTERS USING SCIENCE TO HELP SWINDLERS

Argue That Scientific Methods
Eliminate Chance In Oil Drilling

BY EDWARD A. SCHWAB
New York — Devising new tricks with which to fool the public in fraudulent oil schemes is a type of genius in which promoters of wildcat oil wells excel.

E. A. SCHWAB

The ancient and mystic dividing rod, supposed to locate water and previous minerals, was the prime hoax worked years ago on our ancestors.

The modern faker has taken the dividing rod idea and brought it up to date. This modernized dividing rod is now a popular method used by a number of oil promoters—setting up claims that science will locate oil, thus eliminating most of the scouting and production problems from the oil industry at one stroke.

Radium was the method of one promoter. Another claimed the radio could do it.

Consider the revolution in the industry if underground oil fields could be located before a drill cut the earth. Dry wells—unprofitable wells—all minimized, and huge tanks built in advance to receive the output of gushers from predetermined natural storehouses!

NOW IN BANKRUPTCY
One man who used this scheme has promoted 17 oil companies in the brief span of seven years. Recently he filed a petition in bankruptcy—and also repudiated the claims he had made for his scientific oil-discovery.

The modernized dividing rod on which gullible investors risked and lost their money was described by a promoter in a prospectus as follows: "It is a mechanical invention designed for using the wireless method of tuning into etheric waves or vibrations from crude oil and the amplification and measuring of the wave energy so as to scientifically locate and define the oil-bearing strata and the probable volume, depth and extent of petroleum deposits in the earth."

Another wild-cater sold stock in such a "scientific oil-finding" scheme on the promise that "the possibilities of a $100 share of this stock is a thousand times greater than the possibilities of a share of Standard Oil stock ever was." His first well was a dry hole—and everybody lost their money.

JANUARY WEATHER
ABOVE USUAL POINT
Temperature Neared High Record Of 37 Years—Was 4.2 Over Average

January's weather was slightly above average, according to the official summary of last month's weather conditions. The temperature during January averaged 19 degrees above zero, which is 4.8 degrees above normal for January. The average of 19 degrees is the medium point between a maximum temperature of 26.3 degrees and the minimum temperature of 12.4 degrees. The highest reading of the month was on Jan. 18 when the mercury climbed to 42 above, and the lowest mark of the first month of the year was 2 below on Jan. 17, showing a fall of 44 degrees in one night.

The average of 19 degrees above for the month is fifth highest for January for 37 years. In the years of 1906, 1914 and 1921, the mean temperature for January was 24 above, which is the highest recorded in the 37 years. In the years of 1891 and 1900, the mean temperature for January was 23 above. In 1898 it was 21 above. In 1889 and 1908 it was 19 above. Nine other years are tied with this year for January temperature. The coldest January in 37 years was in 1912 when the mean temperature was 1 degree below zero.

DEBATERS DRILL FOR H. S. MATCHES

Training in rebuttal speeches will be given members of Appleton high school debate teams all during February in order that the teams will be ready for the first big debate on March 16. At that time, East Green Bay negative team will meet Appleton here and Appleton negative team will go to Manitowoc. The competition in debate this year is greater than ever before since Appleton will meet only schools of about the same size. They are Oshkosh, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, East Green Bay and Fond du Lac.

The first clash of the teams came last Saturday morning and after much more work and more meetings, another clash will be had on Saturday morning. The question which is being debated is: Resolved, that federal government own and control the coal mines of the United States, constitutionally granted. The winners for the first triangular debate will compete in a dual debate late in March for the league championship.

Toning Of Bodies For Efficient Lives Is Aim Of School Gymnasiums

High School Can't Fill Demands
Of Pupils Who Seek Daily Exercise—Health Defects Are Found In Tests

Physical education at Appleton high school at the present time includes a great many things which the people who are opposing the installation of gymnasiums in the new junior highs never thought that it included. To the man or woman who had no physical education the word in school, physical education usually means football and basketball teams in which a comparatively few students take part and which leaves the other hundreds of students without any attention from the paid instructors. This is far from true.

Because of the overcrowded condition at Appleton high school at the present time, physical education is restricted to the freshmen and sophomores only, not of the juniors and seniors. Again because of the crowded condition, physical education is required only three times a week.

HEALTH BIGGEST FACTOR
That athletic teams are of minor importance is demonstrated by the comparatively small amount of time given to them during school hours. The entire time of the instructors is taken with classes for all the students. In these, health is the paramount issue.

When a child is registered at the beginning of the year for gymnasium work, he is given a physical examination. These often reveal minor defects and illnesses which can be corrected at once, thus giving the child a chance to do his school work with the assistance of a healthy body. Sometimes serious defects are discovered and these too must be taken care of. With out the physical examination, these children might go through the year in bad health.

TONE UP BODIES
When the United States was preparing for war, the men in the training camps were given rigid workouts in setting up exercises and that was because the country needed strong men who could do hard mental and physical labor. Gymnasium classes give the children in high school a similar opportunity to tone up their bodies for greater mental and physical achievements. The habit of exercise gained in the gymnasium carries through life and makes the man and woman better able to carry on his work because his body is in perfect condition.

Another of the things which the children learn in gymnastic work is the spirit of the game and the cooperation of group activity. If children can be taught to play the game without flinching in the gymnasium, the influence of that same rule of the game will follow him into manhood. After setting up exercises at the beginning of the class periods, group games and activities are carried on. These give the children a chance to relax and to develop at the same time.

OUT DOOR WORK
The program during the year is varied on the floor so that the type of exercise suits the time of the year. Much of the work is given out of doors so that plenty of fresh air accompanies the work. If possible the indoor work and the outdoor work are alternated.

Besides the exercises and games on the floor, these are correlated with class work in health and social hygiene. The children are taught how to care for their bodies and the reason for exercises. To give them gymnastic work without telling them what is to be accomplished and why, is to miss part of the benefits of the work.

Just to demonstrate how much physical education means to the high school students, what happened at Appleton high school this year is interesting. When it was announced that gymnasium would be required for freshmen and sophomores only, it was also announced that Miss Dorothy Vestal would give an extra course for older girls at the last period in the day, when most of the upperclassmen could go home. Almost immediately 55 girls had signed up for this work

SUDAN PLANS EXTENSIVE IRRIGATION FOR COTTON

By Associated Press
Cairo, Egypt—Moved by the decrease in Egypt's production of cotton, the Sudan government will resume the irrigation development which came to an end in 1913 owing to financial reasons and labor troubles. A contract for irrigation, to cost about 10,000,000 pounds, has been taken by an English firm. It is expected that in three years, time 300,000 acres of cotton will be under cultivation, producing about 50,000 bales annually. Several thousand natives will find employment under Englishmen as foremen and directors.

and remain in the gymnasium long after the period is over playing and continuing their gymnastic work. About the same number of boys go in for athletics outside of their physical education work.

CREATES PROPER SPIRIT

A large number of people who do not favor physical education do not understand what it does. One of its biggest values aside from its health factor is the way in which it does away with self-consciousness and makes a person more at ease. Often in a crowd, a man who can adapt himself to his surroundings and who has a good time wherever he may be is the envy of the crowd who cannot enter into the spirit of things. This is what is meant by "the spirit of play" and the great variety of things taught in gymnasium classes gives that. The state of Michigan is recognized as one of the most progressive along the line of physical education. In that state it is made compulsory. It will not be long, according to educators, before physical education will be required in the entire twelve grades of the secondary education system.

Learning Etiquette In Books, Popular Pastime

The rising generation is fully determined to make the most of its opportunities and at present is devoting everything in sight at the public library which pertains to information on etiquette. Although a few older persons call for the books on social behavior it is the younger ones who are just making their debut in society who are demanding the information. According to the librarians the few books which are at present in the library with the exception of the extremely old numbers have been in great demand.

Of the books demanded "Etiquette" by Emily Post is the most up-to-date and therefore in greatest demand. It is written in such an interesting manner and has so much valuable information on a score of subjects as to be quite entertaining, according to those who have dipped into its secrets. "The Value of Good Manners" by Bailey is another popular book and "The Book of Business Etiquette" by Braddy, the "Encyclopedia of Etiquette" by Holt and the "Encyclopedia of Social Usage" by Roberts are the others which have been circulating.

Conkey book store has had numerous calls for the book on "Etiquette" by Post. Considering the type of book, as it cannot be classed as fiction desired by most book buyers, it has been among books in greatest demand.

COUNCIL VOTES TO DOUBLE PAY OF ITS MEMBERS

Salary Is Fixed At $240 a Year — Parking Ordinance Introduced

Salaries of Appleton's 12 aldermen were nearly doubled at the council meeting in the city hall Wednesday evening when the aldermen fixed their pay at $60 a quarter or $240 a year. The salary, since the return to aldermanic form of government, was $35 for each meeting, or approximately $140 a year. The aldermen will receive very nearly $10 for each meeting hereafter.

The council holds regular meetings on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, making 24 meetings each year, each alderman receiving $120 a year for attending regular meetings. Not more than six special meetings are held in a year so the alderman's salary hardly exceeded $150 a year for attending council meetings. Under the new scale he will receive $240 a year.

Committee service fees were left at 50 cents an hour. It has been the practice for sometime, however, for most of the aldermen to put in a bill for five hours' time when they attended committee meetings, even if the meetings lasted only an hour or less. The usual compensation for attending a committee service for most of the aldermen has been $2.50.

The salary of the city sealer of weights and measures was increased $210 a year, making his pay $1,350. None of the other salaries were changed.

Petitions for the opening of several streets were referred also to the same committee. Rules governing the parks were read and adopted.

SCHOOL MASTER WILL MARRY GERMAN PRINCESS

By Associated Press
Bartenstein, Wuertemberg — One of the signs of Germany's new democracy is the engagement of Herr Waldenmaier, a Bartenstein school teacher, to Princess Maria Rosa Hohenzollern-Bartenstein.

The bride-to-be is 19 years of age. Her mother, an imperial princess and archduchess of Austria and Tuscany, escorted the affianced pair to Salzburg for the purpose of obtaining the consent of the grandmother, the Grandduchess of Tuscany.

Horse Takes Fright

The rural delivery horse of John Freude, carrier on route No. 2, received a scare Wednesday morning when a truck coming out of the alley of Schlatter Hardware company (in shop on East-st, here upon) started. The horse fled down the street at such a pace that a mail bundle was lost. The bundle was recovered, however and returned to the postoffice.

REMOVE SNOW

Street traffic was somewhat hampered Thursday by the severe drifts that followed the snow storm of a few days ago. But the large snow scrapers and scoops were brought into action by the street department to remove some of the surplus snow, thereby facilitating the parking along the curb. The snow is being deposited on the vacant property of the Traction company at Washington and Oneida-sts.

John Ross has returned to his duties at Karl Schuetter's tailor shop after a several days' illness.

FARMER INSTITUTE FOUGHT BY MILLER

Outagamie - co Assemblyman Would Abolish Farmers' Winter Meetings

A bill to abolish farmers institutes because "they have outlived their usefulness to the state," has been introduced in the Wisconsin legislature by Assemblyman Anton Miller from the second district of Outagamie-co. Miller says abolition of the institutes would cut state expenses by $30,000 a year. Miller also introduced a bill calling upon the important boards and commissions of the state to make reports to the legislature. He also has a bill which would abolish a special demonstration stump pulling train. He argues that the stump pulling plan is not feasible.

HOTEL LETS CONTRACTS FOR LIGHTS, PLUMBING

Two contracts were awarded Wednesday by the owners of the Hotel Appleton for work to be done in the eight-story addition now being erected by Greunke Brothers.

Langstadt Electric company received the contract for installing all the electrical fixtures. The plumbing job was let to Gmeiner Plumbing and Heating company. Lavatories are to be installed in every sleeping room of the building and all rooms are to be connected with bath.

The heating contract has not been awarded. The heating system of the present hotel is to be connected with the addition and operated from a common boiler room.

WANT NURSE REPORTS TO BE GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC

In an address on the subject of county and city nurses for Appleton Mrs. James Wood urged the members of the Rotary club before whom she spoke to get the facts of Miss Bertha Schultz's work before the people through the newspaper. Mrs. Wood read a three year report, left by Miss Schultz, who was the last county nurse and who resigned in January. The Rotarians. Although this report has never appeared in the Post-Crescent as a three year report, all the figures have been given in this paper as yearly reports of the county nurse.

Mrs. Wood in her address said that the report of the expenses of the county nurse had been greatly exaggerated in the Post-Crescent's report of the county board meeting. The Post-Crescent at that time used only what figures were given to members of the county board as authentic.

Mrs. John Heekel, Richmond-st, submitted to an operation for appendicitis at St. Elizabeth hospital Thursday.

WILL PROSECUTE GARBAGE DUMPERS

The public dumping grounds in the ravine at Washington and Superior-sts was not intended for a garbage pit, declares George Merkel, deputy health officer. Some persons seem unable to distinguish between rubbish and garbage, judging from the large amount of foul refuse that lately has been deposited there in the night.

Only refuse that will not ferment or decompose is permitted to be dumped on these grounds, and the health department is prepared to prosecute anyone violating this rule. An employee is on hand at the dumping ground from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the evening and he will direct persons where rubbish is to be dumped.

Buck of Appleton, scout executive, was present at the meeting.

MILWAUKEE YOUTHS ARE DETAINED BY POLICE

The parents of the boys have been notified by Chief George T. Prim to take their sons back home.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

Prove splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by test

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a truly worthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write or where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

ASCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 23 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

C. OF C. VOTES IN FAVOR OF FEDERAL EDUCATION BERTH

National Chamber's Referendum Brings Majority Votes On Three Questions

Appleton Chamber of Commerce has gone on record through the referendum of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States submitted last week as favoring creation of a federal department of education with a secretary in the president's cabinet.

Members here also favor enlarging of the present federal bureau of education and endorse the principle of federal aid to education in the states on the basis of states appropriating sums equal to those given by the federal government.

Results of the voting have been transmitted to the national chamber's office in Washington, and will form part of a nationwide poll which will serve as a guide to congress in knowing the attitude of businessmen, some educators and others in enactment of the Sterling-Townsend bill.

The ballot had three questions on which each member was asked to vote yes or no. The majority in favor of the first, approving the department of education, was 10. The second on enlarging the bureau of education brought a majority of 9; the third, on federal aid for states had a majority of 12.

Mother Poetry Contest Is An Inspiration To Children

In hundreds of homes in Outagamie, as these winter evenings, mothers are calling their youngsters around them and together they read the poems which are entered in the Mother Poetry contest conducted by The Post-Crescent. The affection for mother which these poems breathe, are an inspiration to the young and a source of delight to the mothers. No feature which The Post-Crescent has offered in many months has created the appeal this contest has.

One lamentable fact must be recorded and that is some of the poems submitted are not the compositions of the persons whose names are signed to them. The Valentine editor found two poems just alike, one submitted by the federal government.

Results of the voting have been transmitted to the national chamber's office in Washington, and will form part of a nationwide poll which will serve as a guide to congress in knowing the attitude of businessmen, some educators and others in enactment of the Sterling-Townsend bill.

The ballot had three questions on which each member was asked to vote yes or no. The majority in favor of the first, approving the department of education, was 10. The second on enlarging the bureau of education brought a majority of 9; the third, on federal aid for states had a majority of 12.

CONTEST RULES

All readers of the Post-Crescent, except employees of the newspaper are eligible.

Poems must be original.

The contest will close at noon on Tuesday, Feb. 13. The winners will be announced Wednesday, Feb. 14, St. Valentine's day.

Poems must not be more than eight lines or less than six lines.

Prizes will be awarded on the basis of sentiment, originality, metre and neatness of the poetry.

Names and addresses of authors must accompany the poems. Names of authors will be detached before the poems are submitted to the judges.

Poems will be printed daily with the initials of the authors.

Readers may submit as many poems as they wish but only one prize will be given to one person.

Awards will be $5 for first prize; $3 for second prize and $2 for third prize.

by a Fourth ward woman and the other by a woman living on a rural route. And neither of the women was the author. Another contributor submitted a Kipling's "Mother O'Mine" as an original poem. The Valentine editor repeats that the poems must be original compositions to be eligible for prizes. The judges will be supplied with all the poems dedicated to mother available to check up poems submitted in the contest if there should arise a doubt as to their originality.

Every reader of The Post-Crescent except its employees, are invited to enter the contest. Read the rules printed herewith and send in your poems to the Valentine editor. The contest closes on Feb. 13, at noon.

There are a number of poems submitted on Wednesday.

An angel spirit from the realms above, Floated to earth from a cloud of love; It nestled in a pure young maiden's heart—

And biding there—became of her a part.

The hand of God placed then with tender grace

A precious gift within her soft embrace;

The host of angels sought a fitting name,

And lo, the sacred word of Mother came.

Dear little mother, with love so true,

Who could look right into the heart of you?

She knew when we were happy

And when we were blue

Her eyes were so brown,

And her smile so true,

I wonder! Was there ever a mother like you!

The Valentine I'm sending says:

"The one that I love best."

There's only one to give that to,

Perhaps you may have guessed,

I'll send it with my dearest love

To you, dear mother mine,

To tell you that I'll always be

Your faithful Valentine.

No nobler thought my soul may claim,

No softer word my tongue can frame,

Than just that one word—

"Mother."

All of compassion, goodness, love,

All of the sweetness of Heaven above,

God bless the name of

"Mother."

You're first and your last in my mind,

The pattern of all that is loving and kind;

Just why we belong to each other's not queer,

For the reason must be that I need

one so dear;

Folks barter their all for one gift or another,

But the sweetest is free, the great gift or a Mother.

A. B.

When you're feelin' sort o' lonely, sort o' down and out you know

And you figure life has picked you out a mighty stony row.

Why just stop and think a minute of your mother and her love.

How she's hopin' for you, prayin', maybe watchin' from above;

And I think you'll find it sort o' helps clear things up some way.

Helps to add a lot of sunshine to the very darkest day.

T. H.

MOTHER O'MINE

God gave the glorious sunlight

And the beautiful drifted snow.

He gave the beauty of the day,

The sunset's amber glow.

He gave the sweet mild roses,

The spangly skirts of blue.

And then to make it perfect,

Mother darling, He gave you!

O. V. S.

Down in mother's kitchen,

Playing on the floor,

Eating mother's cookies

Begging for some more

Watching mother's knitting

Singing songs of yore:

I wish I was a child again,

On mother's kitchen floor.

N. K.

My Valentine

There are pals, and friends, and sweet hearts too,

I cherish each as most all do,

Yet sometimes these may turn and flee

From us, in time of misery.

But ONE stands by, she hears our plea

Friend, pal, sweetheart, she is all three.

The Three In One is Mother mine

She'll always be My Valentine.

B. S. A.

A little token to all my friends.

But best of all, to you I send Mother dear, so kind and true.

Thru all her worries and troubles too,

Who stands the test of all the years?

Who is a better pal, my dears,

Than mother, with her winsome smile

To drive away all cares and trials?

G. C. B.

Who comes to lift me from my crib?

My Mother!

Who plays at Peek-a-boo with me?

Dancers, and sings Mother Goose with me?

My Mother!

Who laughs with me when I'm at play?

Who kisses all my tears away?

My Mother!

Who lays me in my little bed?

Who softly carries my little head?

My Mother!

G. M. D.

Whatever friends you make,

Whatever course you take,

Whether you become a success

Or make life a fearful mess

And if you feel lonely and blue

And wish for a friend good and true:

Remember you cannot find another

Who will take the place as good as mother.

R. V.

I'm thankful for the sunshine

That fills this world of ours.

I'm thankful for the rivulets,

The birds, the trees the flowers.

I'm thankful Oh for many things,

But most of all, 'tis true

I'm thankful, Oh so thankful,

For a mother dear, like you.

DRAW JURY TO TRY 8 CASES NEXT WEEK

Several Trials Advanced To Shorten March Circuit Term For Farmers

Jurors of the September tales were on Wednesday notified by Harry A. Shannon, clerk of circuit court, to appear next Tuesday, Feb. 13, to try several cases, a calendar of which has been held over until the March term, but an understanding between Judge Edgar V. Werner and the members of the bar made it possible to try some of the cases this month, thus shortening the March calendar as a matter of convenience for the farmer jurors.

George F. Fiedler of Seymour, Morris Barteau of Appleton and John C. Mitchell of Kaukauna will meet at the courthouse this week to draw a jury panel for the March term. This circuit court term will open on March 5, at 2 o'clock.

There are eight cases on the calendar for the special session next week. Six are on appeals from the municipal court, three of which are criminal cases. They are as follows: State of Wisconsin vs. Louis Smith; State of Wisconsin vs. E. H. Diney; John Wolfinger vs. John Wolfinger; John Wolfinger vs. Bourassa; John perger Donner vs. Bourassa; John White vs. Fred Ashman; Dr. Frank C. Walch vs. Joseph Worth; B. H. Diney vs. Jeter Weyenberg.

RAILROADS WILL ISSUE MILEAGE BOOKS MARCH 15

Traveling Salesmen Will Enjoy
20 Per Cent Reduction
In Expense

Local railroad ticket offices will be selling new non-transferable and interchangeable mileage tickets on March 15 under the new order of the interstate commerce commission. The tickets will be sold in the denomination of $50, at a reduction of 20 per cent of the face value of the ticket.

Such tickets were strongly urged by the commercial travelers of the country, and congress recently passed a bill authorizing their issuance. The railroads were ordered to issue new tickets at and after March 15 for the persons whose traveling bills exceed $50 a year.

The order means a reduction of 20 per cent in passenger fares. No estimate was made of the number of persons thus affected, but it is known that the order will effect a large saving to the traveling public, and particularly to the business interests which employ large numbers of traveling salesmen.

HARVEST PLENTY OF ICE FOR CITY

Storage Houses Are Filled To Roofs—Ice Is Of Good Quality

Lutz Ice company finished cutting its supply of ice for the coming season Tuesday. The icehouses at Lake Winnebago and at Lehmann landing are filled to the roof. The company finished last season with a small supply of ice on hand and harvested more than enough this winter to answer all requirements for the coming year.

The quality of the ice this year is the best that has been cut in recent years, according to officials of the company. The Lake Winnebago ice was 18 inches in thickness and that of Fox River 14 inches. The company uses its own teams exclusively in cutting and hauling the ice and had no difficulty in securing all the men needed.

In recalling his early experiences,

Farmer Boys Make Carousal Of School Event

"You are cordially invited to attend a box social and dancing party at the school."

The invitation itself was harmless enough. The school needed money and what better means could the little teacher devise to raise the funds? The box social would surely attract the old boys; the dancing party was the bait for the young ones. There were a few things, however, that the school ma'am could not foresee nor forestall.

A few rural youths, having forgotten how to distinguish between a respectable party and a wild, wild fling, last week transformed what was intended to be a peaceful affair into goodness knows what. Having reason to suspect that no moonshine would be sold in the school, they proceeded to supply themselves beforehand with what would sufficiently supply their needs for one evening.

It is said there was no peace after that and that the little school marm fluttered about from place to place making all sorts of entreaties. The venerable school board somehow seemed to be helpless. But it is well understood that there will be no more box socials and dancing parties in that school district of Outagamie-co.

Use Of Groups

Judge E. V. Werner of Shawano is working on a plan which will give the boys and girls of this part of the state a great deal of pleasure during the summer months. It is to have firms erect buildings large enough for two or four persons to sleep in, for use as a structure then will be built for an eating place, these to be on his land across from the county park at Shawano lake.

It is now planned to have boy scouts, girl scouts, camp fire girls, or any boy or girl organization use these places for a week or so at a time. He expects to arrange a baseball ground, tennis court and other places of sports or games, so that it will be an ideal place for boys and girls to spend a vacation and be out of doors.

A sample building has been erected and it is thought that about 40 of these will be built this winter so as to be ready for occupancy during the summer months.

JULIA WITTLIN TO SEEK SCHOOL JOB

It is now definitely known that Miss Florence S. Jenkins, county superintendent of schools, will have opposition at the spring election. Miss Julia Wittlin, a well known Appleton teacher, has taken out nomination papers for that office.

Miss Wittlin is a resident of Appleton, but is engaged in departmental teaching in the public schools at Sheboygan. She received her education in Ryan high school of Appleton and at the state normal school at Oshkosh. She also took some studies at the University of Wisconsin. She has taught in rural schools, state grade schools and in city public schools of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

THE Post-Crescent now has 40% more circulation than the combined circulation of the Daily Post and the Evening Crescent at their highest points. No other newspaper in the State of Wisconsin has shown such an increase in the past three years. It is little short of phenomenal but there is a reason. The policy of The Post-Crescent has been to give its readers the best possible newspaper within its power. The growth of circulation is the one big, indisputable result that reflects the appreciation of our policy.

Lightning would run away from all and sundry as he had done for two years now, and Dawnlight, if the master would put her up, would make a speedy showing, and this year, for the first time, the young matched racers, Firebrand and The Flame, would have their chance. Redcloud was getting a trifle old and she had overheard some talk between the boss and Tom Briston concerning his withholding.

Poor Redcloud—wild and strong and keen as the wind in spring! She visioned him, screaming in his stoke, pounding the earth, with his shining hoofs, when the rest went off to town—for the first time without him!

She frowned in the dusk with a quick sorrow for the old racer's passing.

Redstar now—Redstar the great, king—he would gaze placidly in his green field and take no note of the Red Brood's arrogance and pride as they trotted away, each with a rider in attendance.

He would not so much as raise his splendid head, blink his soft eyes, or And yet of them all he was the king—faster than their fastest, stronger than their best.

"Dad," Val said presently, when there came a lull in the tinkling music while Belle Hannon hummed an elusive melody the better to bring it to her fingertips. "Dad—why have you never run Redstar in the races?"

"Eh?"

The rancher took the pipe from his lips suddenly and set it up in his chair. His handsome dark eyes, so like Val's own in one or two expressions, narrowed in the darkness.

"Why do you ask me that?"

At the tone of his voice any one on the rancho, save and except these two women, would have ceased to press the conversation.

"Why, I don't know daughter," he answered calmly, "except that, keen as you are on horseflesh and racing, you've never let him run. And you know, and I know, that he can beat anything under God's heaven that ever ran on these plains."

John Hannon put the pipe back between his lips.

"Perhaps," he said, "that's just 'h' reason. He's too good."

The girl studied a moment.

"That's so. There's nothing to run with him—not in a mile—nor a thousand miles! And he'd dwarf the Red Brood down to nothing. Yes—I see."

She lay silent, thinking, while the elusive melody, caught in Belle Hannon's pale fingers, came tinkling forth in the twilight.

At the end of an hour of perfect quiet, save for the old piano's voice, when her mother swung around on the ancient bench and the master rose to take the outstretched hand that had held him fast for so, these many years, Val stretched her healthy young body and rose also.

"Dad," she said again, "did you ever see a horse that looked like Redstar in every line and motion?"

John Hannon stopped in his tracks, stockstill.

"No," he said at last sharply.

"Because I did—from the top of Mesa Grande the other day—a horse that led a bunch of riders from up Leandra way—a horse that was a dead ringer for the Redstar, or I'm a liar. Color, size, speed, action—it might have been the king himself. If I had not sat upon him myself that very minute I'd have said it was the king."

The rancher wet his lips but he straightened up and, taking his wife's hand, led her out from behind the bench, his arm about her frail shoulders.

"You're seen' things, Val," he said with a careless laugh, "there's no boss in this country that looks like th' Redstar. Th' height o' th' neck—th' distance—they distorted your sight. No—there ain't no match for him this side o'—"

"Where?" asked Val as her father paused.

"Hell," he said succinctly and led his wife away.

If to his women John Hannon was good and brave and tender, combining the rugged qualities that passed for virtue in this wild land, there were others in the scattered community who thought differently. Quinlan of the BarStar, for instance, over at the southwest beyond the Broken Buttes, whose fine black racer, Live Coal, had been run off his feet by Redcloud in his prime, and the Atkinson boys, Sam and Dyke of the Circle. At forty miles due west, whose tongues were not so guarded as they might have been.

"Funny thing John Hannon ha'n't never lost no cattle," Dyke had said once in Santa Leandra, "when every outfit this side the line, an' further north than us, too, has stood to lose a share each year. What's his magic I'd like to know?"

And John Hannon had heard the word and when next he met Dyke Atkinson he tapped the two blue guns that swung always at his hips and looked the other hard in the eyes.

"Here's my magic, Dyke," he said evenly. "Want t' see me make it?" And Atkinson looked back as hard.

"Not particularly," he answered, "but I don't take backwater for what I said. I'd still like t' know some things, bein' curious."

"Curiosity killed a cat, onet," snapped the boss of Paradise, an' it ain't lost its power none. I'd hate t' haf' t' bore you, Dyke—but you'll either keep a careful tongue in your head about me, or draw quicker'n I can."

"An' you know you've got me there," Dyke said hotly, "an' not only me but every man on this here rancho—an' you use th' knowledge to bully th' country with—"

He never finished the sentence, for John Hannon flashed a hand, lightning-swift, at his hip and shot him where he stood—a fine, clever bit of marksmanship that broke the right arm above the elbow and left Dyke Atkinson maimed for life.

"Shoot me full o' holes!" raved the latter, "seve me if you want to! But I'm still curious!" which proved him a man of sterner mettle, indeed, facing John Hannon's guns.

"I ain't killin' you 'dawn," said Hannon, "I'm teachin' you a lesson—an' any others that might be—too damned curious."

And he showed the gun into his holster, turned on his heel and strode away without a backward look.

CHAPTER VI

The Cry of a Desert Owl

"Val darling," said Belle Hannon, groping through a door to the depth and coolness of the great room which was for her daughter's own particular place, "how's the dance dress coming on?"

Val went quickly to meet her and drew her forward to a chair beside the deep sill of the west window. It was a rule of that house that none should pass those outstretched hands.

"Perfectly lovely!" cried the tall girl, "see."

And she snatched a fluff of white from the high built bed and spread it on her mother's lap.

"There are gathers, little ones, about the neck and a pretty spreading ruffle. The sleeves are short—just a bit above the elbow. The skirt is full and has three little ruffles, too. I shall wear my red silk sash and the Spanish shoes with the red heels that dad brought me last year when he came home from his trip. There are red roses beginning to bloom on the old bush beside the kitchen door and I'll put one of them behind my ear. I have the red feather fan, too."

"Beautiful!" said the woman, her sensitive fingers feeling expertly of the sheer material on her lap. "Seeing" the mark of the garment "you will look like a full blown rose yourself, Val, I know."

The girl laughed and a small dimple came out in her left cheek just above the line of her chin. Her dark eyes were melting soft at the vision of herself in all this finery.

"You just bet I will," she said serenely and Belle laughed also. There was a close camaraderie between these two.

"And your father says Joyce Clendenning will be up from El Rio Rancho to run his silver horse."

Instantly Val frowned.

"Funny how dad likes that man," she said, "he thinks the sun rises and sets in him."

"He must be a good man, else your father would not think so," said Belle, quietly, "and isn't he young?"

"Yes," and handsome.

"Yes, he is. Big, blond, heavy-shouldered, and with the mightiest eyes I ever saw—except dad's when he's studying some one."

"Boyce Clendenning's got sense, I stake my 'pile."

This typical "Down South" melody played by the Oriole Terrace Orchestra is truly beautiful with its gently swaying rhythm. Listen for the few bars of "Turkey in the Straw," "Old Black Joe"—and the deep throated whistle of the old steam boat as she heads down the river.

"Old Maid" Caps Mark Spinsters Of Paris Shops

(William Boltho, in The London Outlook)

The Paris women know—elementary fashion—is held up by the lively fingers of the best needle women in the world. Their day has its importance. Badly paid and organized, they are hard on the rest of the year, by the hardest-headed and hearted organization in Europe, the great dressmakers' syndicate. But once a year they revolt, to feast the mystery of their St. Catherine.

It starts in the morning. Everyone comes late, for once. The early comers joke and nudge, peeping at the good things set out in the sewing machine rooms, putting on their fancy costumes, if they have them, and admiring the others. By and by the first hands arrive with mysterious cardboard boxes holding the Catherine caps they have made—the central symbol of the fete.

In the big houses this year these are made of lace like delicate night-caps and everywhere trimmed with ribbons of two colors—green for jealousy, and yellow for scorn. When all are come they give them to the girls who have the right and duty to wear them. All know whose turn has come. The workroom keeps no secrets, and when one hangs back or turns reluctant, the others kiss her kindly and gently force her to put it on. Every Catherine has received, by the first post, a valentine card, with midket mob cap and the pretty doleful ribbons stuck on. Mock protests, giggles and scuffles in the corner, while the wine is served to all.

This is the consecration of old maids with the Catherine cap. Who reaches 25 years without being married or asked is obliged to wear the cap by irrepressible tradition of the workroom. It is a universal custom to mock at old maids. These fellows it, and laugh, in company, at themselves. But younger mixxes, to encourage sisters and friends, bring out illegal Catherine of their own, and don them.

Blue Laws Keep Dance Halls Filled With Youths

The More Repressions, The Greater Need For Expression, Woman Says

BY MARIAN HALE

Blue laws and restrictions are the best fuel to keep the dance hall lights a burning.

So believes Wilma Gilmore, who conducts one of the most exclusive dancing schools in New York.

"The more repressions forced upon people are improving as dancers; quite the contrary."

"An erroneous idea prevails today," she explains, "that one doesn't need to learn to dance—that one just gets up and steps to music by instinct."

"That's why we have exaggerated DON'TS BY WILMA GILMORE"

Don't be discouraged if you aren't a Vernon or Irene Castle after a few lessons. It takes practice to be a good dancer.

Don't believe you're too old to learn.

Don't if you're a man, attempt elaborate figures unless sure your partner can follow them.

Don't dance from your knees, but from your hips.

Don't shake your shoulders or hips or take exaggerated long steps.

Don't squat—that comes from bending the knees.

Don't extend your body over your step—keep your balance always.

Don't watch your feet.

Don't raise your own or your partner's shoulders higher than the natural line.

Don't allow a wide base between the feet—it's most ungraceful.

motions, awkward positions—little grace and beauty.

CONFESSION OF IGNORANCE

"Just as well expect to play a piano without lessons or paint a picture without instruction as to dance well with no knowledge of what you're trying to do."

"The ridiculous dancing—or what passes as dancing—that we see today isn't an effort at honest amusement, but a confession of ignorance."

"People who know how to dance correctly don't make spectacles of themselves."

But because a whole country is dance mad, Miss Gilmore adds, it doesn't necessarily follow that the

KASHA CLOTH GOWN

BY MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Kasha cloth is a delightful fabric to tailor as it actually seems to improve with pressing and sewing. The simplicity of this design intensifies the smartness of the surplice front and the plaited, sid skirt effect, both being especially good style features for early spring.

The printed silk handkerchief adds gains popularity with each day. Here the most favored ways of wearing it are evidenced as neck tie and hat scarf. Such handkerchiefs are to be had in all varieties of colors and in many beautiful qualities of silk.

Artists Disagree On Effect Of Jazz On European Folks

BY MARIAN HALE

"American coon songs and American jazz," says John Abbott, Englishman, and director of one of Europe's largest musical publishing houses, "have done more to make friends for the United States in the Old World countries than all the diplomats and speakers put together."

"The best proof," he adds, "of the internationalism of American music is the fact that most of Europe's folk dances are being done now to jazz records from this side of the water."

Margaret Matzenauer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, admits this, but instead of speaking of it with satisfaction, as Abbott does, it grieves her.

ISN'T IT AWFUL

"I can think," she mourns, "of no more deplorable tragedy than that European peasants are tuning their folk dances to the blues and jazz tunes that prevail here.

"These dances," she explains, "interpret the life of the people and have been their expression of ecstasy for centuries."

"Fancy them being done to melodies with such names as 'Hot Dips' or 'Running Wild!'"

"These things may have their place, but it is not in the home of the European peasant."

TO DOROTHY DONNELLY, author of "Blossom Time," it seems quite right, however, that we should lend music to Europe, considering, as she says, that we borrowed it all from there in the first place.

"What better way," she asks, "is there to promote a real understanding between nations than an exchange of music?"

Vanda Hoff, premier danseuse at the Palais Royal, New York's smart Broadway restaurant, finds American tunes more adaptable to classical dancing than those of long ago.

"They interpret the spirit of the times," she asserts.

JUST WHAT'S NEEDED

"Instead of feeling like bewailing the substitution of jazz for folk tunes I can see signs of a healthy modern influence—the one thing the European peasantry needs."

Jazz

"The modern musician is tremendously interested in it," exclaims Ethel Leginska, concert pianist and composer.

"The public generally resents it when somebody comes along with an original message. People are fairly comfortable with old things and they're antagonized when something new is offered."

"But everywhere there's a cry for modernity in art."

"What better place for it than a new country like ours?"

DRESS HINTS

STRAIGHT-LINE FROCKS

A smart straight-line frock of yellow moire is worn over a slip of satin a trifle darker in tone, and girded elaborately with pearls a trifle below the natural waistline.

ABSENCE OF BLACK

The absence of black from the sartorial ranks is most noticeable this season. When black is used it is relieved by much white, or by very brilliantly colored peasant embroidery.

BEADED GOWNS

Beaded dresses, though they have been done and overdone for several seasons, are still very smart. So are spangled gowns and those with designs outlined in pearls or wooden beads.

RED CHIFFON

Red chiffon is a popular material for evening and dinner gowns. It is frequently trimmed with rhinestones or beads of the same color.

Both Have Lovely Hands

yet—One woman does every bit of her own work, while the other has a personal maid, a cook and butler and never goes inside the kitchen!

Pretty white hands for housewives. A new idea in household soap.

Since the beginning of time, soft white hands have been accepted as the mark of a lady. This may be a blunt way of putting it. But we do so to bring the point home.

Three out of four American housewives suffer the handicap of ugly red hands from the use of strong household soaps in dishwashing, laundry and other housework. Noted chemists have long sought a household soap having effective cleansing qualities, but sparing of women's hands and clothes.

At last—a utility soap harmless to hands

We examined 28 popular brands of laundry soap and found "filler" in 27 of them. This "filler" in most cases is silicate of soda, or what is commonly known as "water glass." The use of this ingredient in soap is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic, which destroys the skin texture and ruins clothes.

After years of effort we have perfected a perfect household soap. It contains no "filler." It is made with olive oil combined with other effective cleansing ingredients. Mild as a toilet soap, yet it has wonderful cleansing qualities. This soap we have called GREEN ARROW.

Are your hands worth 5c a month?

Green Arrow Soap costs a bit more than laundry soap. But it is pure soap all through. Hence it lasts twice as long. We know if you will use it, and figure your soap, not by the cost per bar, but by the cost per month, you will find Green Arrow costing only 5c to 6c more per month. And lovely, soft hands will be yours.

Just try Green Arrow one week. Then note how pretty your hands. Your grocer has Green Arrow.

Why Tell the World you do your own work?

Rough, ugly hands tell a story to the world. A story of the kitchen, the laundry, the scrub bucket.

Most women do housework. But few want to tell it to every chance acquaintance.

Most laundry soaps contain 25 to 50% water glass. This adulterant, technically known as silicate of soda, is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic. It is this "filler"—not soap—that runs hands. Green Arrow is made with the precision of a toilet soap and is pure soap.

Now you can have white and lovely hands regardless of how much kitchen work you do.

For your hands and your clothes sake, go to your grocer and insist on buying GREEN ARROW.

CHOPS

BY BERTHA SHAPLEIGH

Probably most housekeepers asked to name the meats preferred by their families, would include chops—lamb, veal or pork.

There are many ways of cooking them besides plain broiled.

The casserole, or covered baking dish, which may be sent to the table, is a great help.

For instance pork chops broiled in a frying pan, then placed on a bed of sliced apples, seasoned and allowed to cook 25 minutes or longer, are delicious.

Stuffed chops are a change from the usual method of cooking. The stuffing may be bread, nicely seasoned, butter and parsley.

The chop is cut extra thick and split to the bone, and the stuffing is placed between the layers, and the whole cooked in a frying pan until well browned. Place in casserole and pour over them a gravy made in the pan in which the chops were fried. Or the chops may be cooked in the gravy in the pan.

Lamb chops are good served on thin slices of broiled ham. A puree of onions is a good accompaniment for veal chops. Fried apples are the finishing touch for pork chops.

HOW TO MASSAGE THE FACE

Massaging the face is an art that anyone can acquire by study and practice.

To remove lines that come from frowning, apply a little cream (tissue building) and with both hands on the center of the forehead, make little circles out toward the temples. Do this a few times. Massage lightly.

WRINKLES ABOVE THE EYES

Place both middle fingers above the nose right in the center of the forehead.

Move the right hand to the left and your left hand to the right. This gives you a straight across movement.

Then quickly draw back both fingers and cross one under the other, making an upper-and-under movement.

You can see, by trying this, that it gives you a half circular ironing movement, which manipulates these muscles, smoothing out the lines above the eyes. It is also necessary to use a good tissue cream and leave this on. Massage lightly.

CROWN FEET AROUND THE EYES

With the middle fingers make little circles out toward the temples. Massage upward on the temples, light but firm.

A straight line drawn toward the temples will also manipulate the muscles, as there are so few layers of tissue around the eyes a good tissue cream will do much toward building up these tissues and removing fine lines. Expression lines are difficult to remove, however, unless one does not use the expression!

THE NOSE—Pat your cream into the nose. One does not need to massage the nose, as there are not many wrinkles that form on it. Laughing lines or lines from eyeglasses form on the upper part of the nose, but one must remove the cause to remove these lines, something neither practicable nor desirable. But with care you can do much to lighten the lines.

THE CHEEKS—For line in center of cheeks, beginning at the lower part of the cheek, in the center, make little circles up toward the eyes.

HOLLOWS IN THE CHEEKS—These are found on thin people. You should build up the entire system and then do the following: Puff out the cheeks, making the face very tense. This exercises the muscles, which have become flabby. Then draw in your cheeks, making the hollows deeper. Repeat a few times.

DROOPING CORNER AROUND THE MOUTH—Try laughing, which exercises the corners, by turning them upward and not downward. Then make little circles around these lines that form in the corners, working upward. Work the muscles of the mouth by puckering the mouth, forcing the lips outward, then drawing them inward.

LINE AROUND THE EARS—Directly under the ear is where the triangular muscle is joined. With both hands at once, manipulate these muscles by working perfectly around right under the ears. Lightly—not heavily.

In massaging always use a good tissue cream and never massage heavily.

ly, always upward and not down ward.

Do not steam the face as this will break down the muscles.

Mud packs are very effective. They do not cause the skin to become wrinkled if you discontinue the use of them.

GOOD MANNERS

At a tea room a woman does not remove her hat. She takes off her gloves, however, and may slip her wrap from her shoulders or remove it entirely.

OSHKOSH AND FOND DU LAC JOIN STATE BALL LEAGUE

APPLETON NOW IN 6 CLUB CIRCUIT AS RESULT OF PARLEY

Baseball War Is Virtually Closed As Former Fox River Wheel Is Disembodied

The Wisconsin State league, increased Wednesday night to six clubs and with possibilities of becoming an eight club organization, will serve Appleton and other cities in the Fox River valley with baseball entertainment this summer.

This summarizes the results of the final gathering of the committees of the Wisconsin league and the former Fox River Valley league in the Conway hotel Wednesday night to end the baseball war since the breach last summer which resulted in the formation of two rival organizations in the northern and eastern part of the state.

GETS DEATH BLOW

Oshkosh and Fond du Lac will be in the same circuit with Appleton, the state committee voting to accept the two cities in the state league. Both cities entered in agreement with Green Bay for a settlement of the difficulties which have arisen before and after the split of the Fox River valley. The coming of Fond du Lac and Oshkosh into the State league was virtually the death knell of the Wisconsin Valley Baseball league. Sheboygan and Kaukauna failing to gain admittance at Wednesday night's parley. Manitowish, of the state wheel, because it lacked a representative at the session, got the gate automatically.

The Wisconsin State league will be composed of the following units:

Appleton.
Green Bay.
Fond du Lac.
Manitowish.
Oshkosh.
Menasha.

LEAVES DOORS OPEN

The Wisconsin State league announced that in accepting franchises from Fond du Lac and Oshkosh, it hasn't exactly closed the doors to other cities and is willing to give consideration to Manitowish, Sheboygan and Kaukauna. Another meeting will be held in the course of the next ten days when the applications of these cities will be given the once over, providing, of course, they will submit notes to the parley. The meeting to be called by President T. E. McGowan. The move, however, intimated that they did not desire to make the organization any larger than eight clubs and as the result one of the teams will have to be chopped off entirely.

Wednesday night's session was attended by R. E. Lynch and Gust Walgren of Green Bay; Walter Miller and Harry Sylvester, Appleton; Fred Beebe, S. H. Brad, and R. T. Schneider, Oshkosh; and Walter Pierce, Menasha. R. C. Nor, former secretary of the Fox River wheel, also sat in at the gathering.

REFUSE TO "REST UP"

Suggestions from the Valley wheel men to scrap both organizations, form a new league under a new name and new officials were turned down by the state committee. They contended that the state wheel was solidly organized and it would only delay the plans for next summer's baseball program to go through the process of organizing new machinery.

Further plans, such as the drawing of a schedule and rules, will be taken up at the coming parley this month. As the matter stands prospects for a season's baseball are very bright. The cities in the State league are all on a single route, making traveling expenses for the club owners as little as possible and the nearness of the cities to one another will mean that fans will be able to travel along with their teams on the concrete highways in automobiles and all the cities with the exception of Manitowish are connected by electric lines.

Whether there will be Sunday and Saturday baseball is a matter still to be decided.

JABBER YOUNG PUTS HANSON TO SLEEP

Oshkosh—Jabber Young, former Neenah punch artist, but Burch Hanson at Chicago to sleep in the third round of their scheduled ten round bout here before the Oshkosh Athletic club, when the Neenah battler hit Hanson for the second time in the solar plexus. Young's first telling punch was in the second round. Hanson, however, came back and gave Young a terrific fight for a while in the third.

In the semi Eddie Mozart of St. Paul shaded Jack Lang of Oshkosh eight rounds of mulling.

A sensational K. O. was staged by Battling Herb who put Young Herzog out of commission with his first punch. The lads, both from the Sawdust city were booked to go six rounds. Herb uncorked a right for the jaw and Herzog spilled to the canvas. He got up in a dazed condition and the fight was called off.

The opener between Jack Murray and Walter Pracknow was a draw. This was a four round affair.

LITTLE CHUTE H. S. TO PLAY HILBERT CAGERS

Little Chute—The boys' basketball team of Little Chute high school will play the Hilbert high school team at Watry hall on Friday evening. The game will be followed by a dance. A symphonic orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music.

Appleton High School Basketball Team Aims To Cop Valley Title

Three Big Games Still To Be Played—Oshkosh And Sheboygan Clash Friday Night At Chair City

Appleton high school has a good chance to cop the basketball title of the Fox River Valley High School Athletic conference and means to do it.

Oshkosh and Sheboygan are still in the lead with clean slates but these two schools will meet Friday night and one of them is destined to fall. Appleton is second on the list with three games won and one lost. Fond du Lac, West Green Bay and Manitowish and East Green Bay are trailing.

Appleton will meet Fond du Lac Saturday night in Armory G although the Blue and Orange liked the Frutmen on their home floor several weeks ago. Coach Denney is not over confident of another victory.

Besides the Fondy squad Appleton still has to meet Oshkosh on Feb. 16 at the Saginaw City. This battle is regarded the biggest obstacle in the way to the valley championship as Oshkosh was the only city that beat Appleton. The other conference game will be with West Green Bay at Appleton on Feb. 22. Neenah will conclude the schedule but the tilt will have no bearing on the sectional race. Sheboygan is the only conference member that Appleton doesn't meet this year.

SEEK LAURELS TOO

Oshkosh—Coach Abrahamson's Blue and White clad warriors at the high school are preparing this week for what is generally conceded will be the deciding championship game in the Fox River Valley high school athletic conference. It will be played at Sheboygan Friday night.

On that date the undefeated Oshkosh quintet will battle Coach Iverson's conference leaders, and while there are still two more conference games to play, it is believed the winner of the Friday tilt will have an easy run for the conference laurels. If Sheboygan wins there will not be a shadow of doubt about it for the Chair City team only has one additional game and that a seemingly sure win over Manitowish.

TWO HARD GAMES YET

Oshkosh, on the other hand, has yet to meet Fond du Lac and Appleton and although the Blue and White has defeated these two aggregations once this season, there is no telling what the future have in store.

Following is the record of the two teams thus far this season:

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

COMPILED BY HEAD SERVICE

NO. 15—THE THICKEST PLAY I EVER SAW

THE hidden ball play must be classed in the category of tricks. Therefore it is fitting and proper that I credit Babe Pinelli of Cincinnati with pulling the thickest play I ever saw on the ball field.

Some years ago the Carlisle Indians pulled the hidden-ball trick in football against Harvard. Receiving the kickoff, the Carlisle interference formed for the runner with the ball. Getting behind the interference, the runner who had received the kickoff stuck the ball under the back of the jersey worn by Dillon. An elastic band had been provided to retain the ball.

Then the Indians separated and all dropped their arms to their side as they raced down the field toward the Harvard goal. The Crimson players were unable to do it out. Dillon ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

The next year the rules committee legislated against the hidden-ball trick. It no longer has a place in the gridiron sport.

Such action has several times been suggested relative to the hidden-ball trick in baseball, but no action has ever been taken to abolish it.

The play being legal, Pinelli, who holds the championship on pulling the hidden ball, must be given due credit for the clever manner in which he pulls it.

Pinelli, who played such a star game at third for Cincinnati last year, was with Detroit when I saw him pull the thickest play I ever saw.

Washington was playing at Detroit. Sam Rice, one of the best base runners in the game, was on third. Washington needed his run.

BASKETBALL AT LAWRENCE HINGES ON GAME TONIGHT

Lawrentians Face Possibility That Future Games Will Be Played In Gym

Attendance at the basketball game in Armory G tonight when Lawrence college plays Carroll college of Waukesha probably will have a big influence on the future of the winter sport in the local school. Basketball never pays its own way at Lawrence. It costs considerable money to bring visiting teams here and the support which the teams have been given by townspeople has been meagre. This year it was decided to play in the armory in order to accommodate larger crowds and one result was that at the Belmont game the attendance of townspeople was the best in years. But even the large attendance did not produce enough money to pay expenses and immediately there was a demand in certain quarters that games hereafter be played in Alexander gymnasium.

The only additional expense incurred in playing in the armory is the rental and the increased attendance because of the playing in the military hall more than offsets the rent. Athletic officials, most of them at any rate, are convinced that it would be poor economy to transfer the games to Alexander gymnasium.

Carroll is coming here with a strong team tonight. It has defeated Ripon twice in Alexander gymnasium. The men have been playing together for two years and know each other's style so well that a smooth working machine has been formed. Lawrence will have to extend itself to win tonight.

MILWAUKEE NORMALS ARE DEFEATED BY OSHKOSH

Oshkosh—The speedy Oshkosh Normal basketball quintet romped away with a victory over Milwaukee Normal here Wednesday night, 31 to 9. Milwaukee was completely outclassed. Close guarding by Oshkosh prevented Milwaukee from ever getting near the basket except on a few rare occasions. Accurate passing, perfect team work and fast floor work enabled Oshkosh to score almost at will. Coach Hancock of Oshkosh used his entire second team in the last half.

The Fox River basketball team of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league, pulled a surprise Wednesday night by beating the Badger Furnace plant league leaders, by a score of 35 to 29.

The whipping reduced the Badger percentage but the Furnace players still are on top with the Fox River and Neenah Kimberly-Clark players closely behind.

BATTLE IS CLOSE

The battle between the Badger Furnace outfit and the Fox River was close all the way. The Fox River team led at the start. In the second half the Furnace players got a small lead. ## MYSTERY IN MODEL'S DEATH

Death of Miss Anita Lehman, 22, artist's model, is under investigation by St. Paul police. She was found dead from poisoning after returning from New York to her St. Paul home. Inability to obtain permanent employment is believed the cause, though relatives say there had been a romance with a New York chemist, with an unhappy termination.

HECKERT ESTATE GOES TO CHILDREN

Late Merchant Leaves $20,000 Homestead And College-Ave Stores

Herman F. Satow of Appleton, and Ferdinand H. Manger of St. Louis, were named executors of the will of the late Herman Heckert, Sr., which was probated Wednesday. The value of the estate over and above two store buildings on College-ave and the family homestead, is estimated at $20,000.

The principal heirs are the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Louis Bonini, to whom is bequeathed the homestead; Herman F. Heckert, Jr., who receives $2,000; Robert O. Heckert, who is to receive an equal share of five parts of the estate less $5,000 which had been granted him while his father was yet living; Mrs. J. G. Pfeil, Appleton; Mrs. Edward Glantz, Racine; Miss Sadie Heckert and Emil T. Heckert, of Denver. The last five heirs are to receive an equal fifth share of the estate less the homestead and several smaller bequests. A condition fixed by the decedent is that the inheritance of these sons and daughters who are without issue be held in trust for them until they have issue. Should they die without issue, the inheritance is to be divided equally among the brothers and sisters according to same condition.

The following grandchildren have also been bequeathed $100 each: John, Robert and Cecilia Bonini; Elizabeth Pfeil; Carl, Louise, Robert and Emil Heckert, all of Appleton.

It was especially stipulated that Mr. Heckert's grandson, Carl Heckert, is to receive his gold watch, Mrs. Pfeil was authorized to divide the household furniture and effects among the heirs in accordance with the wish of his late wife.

The two lots and storebuildings, one of which is occupied by Herman Heckert, Jr., whose merchant may be sold to the latter at an appraisal to be fixed by disinterested persons who are to be appointed by the county judge.

NEW ZEALAND CHEESE COMPETES WITH CANADA

Toronto—By Associated Press

Canadian dairymen are concerned over the future of their industry, and steps to save it from a further slump are being considered by provincial and federal agricultural authorities. The chief cause for concern is the inroad that New Zealanders have made in the British market where, for many years, Canadian cheese held first position.

J. A. Ruddle, Dominion dairy commissioner, admits that the industry is "facing a crisis, the like of which has never arisen" and M. N. Empey, president of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, has expressed the same view.

Grading of cheese under federal supervision and some change in the texture of the product prepared for export are among the measures proposed.

Between 1911 and 1921, federal figures show, exports of cheese to Great Britain declined from 181,833, 724 pounds annually to 133,629,340 pounds, while in the same period New Zealand's shipments to the mother country increased from 49,187,384 pounds to 160,911,484 pounds.
